BLAMES CRAZE FOR SPEED.

Engineer of Wrecked Train Gives Explanation for Accident.

A pathetic echo of the tragedy at Eddington, Pa., when the fastest train runing between New York and Philadelphia crashed into another train on the Pennsylvania road, killing three women and injuring many passengers, came in the story of George Van Arsdale, the engineer of the flyer.

His narrative of what happened and the emotions he felt is intensely dramatic—fraught with the sorrow of a man must feel, when after 43 years of work at the throttle and at the age of 69, he meets his first accident. The accident was caused by the failure of the air brakes on his train to work properly.

So great was the grief of the aged man, who for more than two-score years had whirled millions of people hundreds of miles in safety, that after the crash he begged some one to shoot him.

"It's the craze for speed, the mania for whizing along like the wind, that is responsible for that wreck," the engineer said. "Since 1863 my hand has been clutching a throttle, and since 1863 I have been watching the gradual speeding up in railroad life and in general commerce. The train I had could speed along the steel ribbons at 60, 70, 80 miles an hour. But the cost sometimes is great. In a great train there are small contrivances, the importance of which none knows but the engineer. Let one of these apparently insignificant pieces of machinery go wrong and—well, you know what happened."

HUNTER LOST TWO TOES.

George Rosencrans of Sayre, Put a Charge of Shot in His Foot.

While hunting squirrels in the woods near Laceyville on Saturday morning, George Rosencrans of Sayre, met with an accident that cost him two toes.

While watching a squirrel on a tree he rested his shot gun on his foot, presumably waiting to get a good shot at the creature, when the gun accidentally discharged. The contents of the barrel, going through his shoe, entered his foot, inflicting an ugly wound. He was taken by friends to a local physician who did all he could for the suffering man. But later he was brought to the Sayre hospital, where the surgeons deemed it necessary to amputate two of his toes.

Burglary at Canton.

Burglars who effected an entrance to the home of E. C. Jones of Canton, by means of a ladder to an upper window, secured valuable jewelry and escaped before their presence was made known to the occupants of the house. It is claimed that there were three in the party. The valuables stolen consist of two soalitaire diamond rings, a valuable necklace and many other pieces of jewelry. No clues as to their identity have as yet been discovered. Mr. Jones is the station agent of the Northern Central railroad.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Annual Gathering of County Instructors Began Monday.

ENROLLMENT UNUSUALLY BIG.

Two New Instructors Appeared and the Work Started Finely—Gettting Down to Business Promptly—The Program for Today.

Every incoming train on Monday brought delegations of the teachers of the county, and others arrived during the day, until after 4 o'clock in the afternoon, every township was represented, and the registration was one of the most satisfactory in the history of the institute. Every indication points to a highly instructive session, and Superintendent Putnam is much pleased at the prospect.

The registration figures Monday afternoon showed that out of the 460 teachers registered in Bradford county, only 29 had failed to register for the institute. The registration of teachers was 431, and there were in addition 18 names of those not engaged as teachers, bringing the total number up to 449. The enrollment clerk this year is O. L. Smiley, and because the work of registering has been reduced to a matter of minute system, the force of sub-clerks is not as large as formerly. Clerk Smiley was assisted for a time yesterday by former Clerk Fred R. Mitten, now of the county commissioners' office. At Superintendent Putnam's office the sale of teachers' seats for the evening lectures progressed during the afternoon.

The First Session.

The first session of the Institute was was begun at 11 o'clock Monday morning, with music under the leadership of Mr. Yetter.

The address of welcome was given by Burgess Foyle, who greeted the teachers and in a pleasing way welcomed them to Towanda. He called attention to our fine court house and library and other public works and private residences. The note book should be used. Teachers who spend much time in the dance hall and other outside entertainments will get small good from the institute.

The allotment of seats was next taken by Mr. McCord, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Humphries. Carbon Run independent district, won first place, South Creek township last.

Dr. Pattengill was introduced and spoke very briefly, there being no time for the regular addresses. Dr. Lowden also spoke and expressed his pleasure in meeting the teachers of Bradford county. Dr. Lowden left this question with the teachers: "Teachers, How Large Is Your World?" Let us work together to enlarge our world.

Afternoon Session.

The Monday afternoon session was opened with music.

Prof. Albert's first address was "A Quartette of Fundamentals." We must obey some laws of mind before we do anything else in beginning school. A child does not go to school first when he goes to the school house. All we know comes to us through the gate of the senses. We get these percepts by attention. The child should first learn to attend. The child must learn through objects or pictures. Teachers must know where they start from and where they expect to get. Each child's mind gains by its own activity only. Make things stick by drill. Repetition by oral language. The art of promoting human growth is the art of arts. The child should learn right from wrong, and how to care for his body. Written expression or reproduction should follow oral.

Dr. Lowden's Address.

Dr. Lowden spoke about the teacher's health. The greatest thing in the world is health. We should stand and live on the top of our existence. Teachers should not get into the medicine habit. Teaching consumes health. The mechanical conditions are very bad. School houses are not built in a manner conducive to health. Teachers should use common sense in the matter of sitting and standing. You should look into your own case and understand it. A teacher should attend to her diet. There should be no lack of exercise and recreation. There should be plenty of sleep.

A few minutes were spent in singing, then Dr. Pattengill spoke during the last period, his subject being "The Big Four," the four principles of school life. A teacher should know more than any pupil knows. A good, round, generous education saves much trouble. Be studious always. This will keep you in sympathy with learners. We should learn the how. A knowledge of principles and methods will help us to pick out good devices.

Gumption Defined.

Gumption is a good Anglo Saxon word. It is the quality which runs affairs and does not let them know they are being run. It is capacity, shrewdness and address. There is "attic" and systematic thinking. Pupils should be taught to think. Quickness and alertness should be taught. Gimp means spirit, zeal, power and enthusiasm. Every teacher must have this. Teach so that boys and girls will love to study. The reward of having appreciation of others in after life. Schools makes our kind of government possible and it makes our trade possible. Teachers have a large share in the make-up of America.

Monday Evening's Lecture.

Frank Dixon, the clever and entertaining lecturer, in his newest production, "How to Pluck the Goose," afforded both instruction and amusement to the large audience. The well known brother of the famous author, Thomas Dixon, has lost none of his piquancy and spice, and the teachers voted the lecture worth more than twice the price.

Notes.

Dr. Albert is an old friend and met an enthusiastic welcome.

Dr. Lowden and Dr. Pattengill are in Bradford county for the first time.

The enrollment at the close of the first day reached 450.

The audience room is very attractive with its decorations of bunting, flags and bells.

Miss Eveland is the new pianist.

The first day's enrollment was the largest ever known.

SECOND DAY OF INSTITUTE.

Several Addresses of Interest, Treating History and Geography.

The first thing on the Tuesday morning program was the music and responsive service.

Dr. Pattengill spoke concerning "A History Lesson Correlated." The talk was under three heads: how to interest pupils so that they will want to study history for history's sake; how to see the relations of historical events to each other; how to teach patriotism. The best citizen of a republic is one who knows its past and lives in the present, looks into the future and be ready for the next step. An example was given of "Jonathan to John," as written by Lowell. This was founded on the Mason and Slidell affair, which takes us back to the war of 1812. This war was important because we went to war about something which could have been settled without; the president did not want to go war but was forced into it; the largest battle was fought after peace was declared; the treaty of peace never said a word about why they fought; it was the second war for independence.

A teacher cannot teach well without a large perspective. The tariff question was part and parcel of this war. The first protective tariff law was introduced into congress by Jno. C. Calhoun of Carolina. Factories and skilled labor can not be had beside slave labor. New England did not want this law. The South won in this. Mason and Slidell had been sent to England to talk up this free trade. Whatever is done inhuman injures all of us alike.

In 1898, England put her record on paper for neutrality.

From this story of "Jonathan to John" may be learned the tariff question, the international law.

Dr. Pattengill closed by reading "Jonathan to John."

Dr. Lowden's Address.

"The Physical Child" by Dr. Lowdon was the next address.

How do you find yourself? How do you carry yourself? How do you stand? How have you eaten your rice? How is your liver? These are questions asked by different nations in place of our good morning. Sleep in a large room with plenty of fresh air and warm, but light covering. We look at the child too much from the intellectual standpoint and not enough from the physical. The reason so many young children die is because parents and teachers do not understand the laws of health. A maimed, polluted, defiled body can never be restored to its original beauty strength. A man has as much mind as he has body. Children should be seated so that their feet should touch the floor. There should be recess. Children need plenty of sleep..

Up-to Date Geography.

A few minutes were spent in singing, then Prof. Albert gave an illustrated geography talk, "Industrial and Commercial Geography" being his subject.

There are many demands for men to write books on industrial geography. Dr. Albert gave an extract from the report of 1905, showing the value of the different crops of the world. These farm products amounted to over $5,000,000,000.

The speaker also showed different articles made from different products, that is from cocoanut, hats, matting, etc., from cocoons, dress goods, upholstery, ribbons, etc.

Tuesday Afternoon.

Music came first, then Dr. Lowden took up the subject "Effective and Ineffecetive Teaching." The man who really thinks and really feels ought to act. Effective teaching goes out in feeling and feeling goes out in do-

TIOGA WAS FORTUNATE

Took Full Advantage of the State Road Making Law.

OVER THIRTY APPLICATIONS.

Bradford County's Share of the Appropriation Is Greater and Its Need for Good Roads Just as Urgent—People Slow to Take Hold.

A dispatch from Harrisburg, which bears every evidence of being official, explains the great benefit derived by Tioga county, Bradford's Western neighbor, through taking advantage of the good roads law. The announcement is of interest to all residents of Bradford county, as showing what may be done by a community alive to its own interests. Bradford county is entitled to the same, if not greater consideration than Tioga, and in time we may expect to have a similar outlay on our roads.

When the first Good Roads law, better known as the Sproul Act, passed the house and senate, and was finally approved by Governor Pennypacker, April 15, 1903, the citizens of Tioga county realized that a way had been provided to have the main thoroughfares throughout the county improved in a modern and up-to-date manner at small cost to the county and townships. The supervisors of Covington township petitioned for state aid in the reconstruction of 4,700 feet of road June 13, 1904, and their action was immediately followed by the supervisors of Richmond and Charleston townships. The roads in these townships were put under contract and completed as soon as possible and have proven such good object lessons that, in 1905, the state highway department had 17 more applications on file from Tioga county, and, so far this year, have received 13 applications.

The amount of money available for use in Tioga county, until June 1, 1907, is $73,635.97. They will receive June 1, 1907, another apportionment of $27,457.37, and June 1, 1908, the last apportionment, amounting to $27,457.37 falls due. This makes a total of $128,550.71 available for road building until June 1, 1909.

The total state's share of roads already constructed amounts to $23,037.35 and the approximate state share of the roads under construction amounts to about $92,235.98, making a total of about $115,273.33. This will leave a balance of about $13,277.38 to the credit of Tioga county after the roads under construction are completed and paid for, and, unless the legislature of 1907 appropriates a substantial Good Roads Fund, it will not be possible to place any more roads under contract until 1909.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN LAQUIN PLANT.

Stave Factory Sheds Burned and Aid Asked from Towanda.

Fire which broke out in the stave sheds of the Pennsylvania Stave and Heading factory, at Laquin, early last evening, destroyed about 150 feet of the shed located on the South side of the company's tract. Because of the high wind blowing when the fire began, it threatened at about 8 o'clock, to destroy a large part of the company's property, and help was telephoned for to Towanda. Members of the Franklin Steamer company and Linta Hose responded, and in a few minutes had their heavy apparatus loaded on a special train at the foot of Park street.

Meanwhile, through the heroic efforts of the men at Laquin, the fire was put under control. The long shed was cut in two, and one end entirely torn down. The staves were removed, and the fire deprived of anything to feed upon. After the train had started from here it was flagged at the local S. and N. Y. station, and the steamer returned to the rooms.

The following telegram was sent from Laquin last evening:

To the Chief of Police, Burgess and Firemen of Towanda:

Fire fully under control. We desire to express our thanks and appreciation for the prompt manner in which you got ready to comply with our request for assistance. We are willing to pay any expense incurred.

Derailment on S. and N. Y.

The Lehigh Valley wrecking crew were busy Monday morning clearing up the debris caused by a derailment of freight cars which occurred at Laquin early Sunday morning, and in which cars loaded with lumber were sent off the track. No one was injured, though a brakeman is said to have had a narrow escape. Traffic of the Sunday trains was delayed somewhat, but the line was opened in good shape for work on Monday. Officials are investigating the cause of the wreck.

The following from a Scranton paper be of interest to the friends of Rev. E. W. DeWitt, former pastor of the Athens Baptist church, and well known here:

"After having virtually asked for the resignation of their base ball loving pastor, the Rev. E. W. DeWitt, the members of the North Main avenue Baptist church at a meeting refused to accept it. The vote to refuse was 83 to 23.

Insane Man Captured.

Chief of Police Walsh of Sayre, during his rounds Saturday night came upon a demented man, who when arrested and examined, proved to be Charles Singleton, at one time a valued member of the staff of the Binghamton Republican, and prominent in the journalistic work of New York state. The unfortunate man had escaped from the Binghamton State asylum, and had made his way to Sayre. During a visit to Owego some two years ago, Singleton became violently insane, and was taken to Binghamton. Every effort was made to bring him to a state of normal mentality without avail, and he was finally committed to the institution. It is not known how he managed to escape from the asylum at Binghamton.

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

PROMINENT LUMBERMAN DEAD.

Sudden Death of J. Henry Turrell at Noxen on Sunday.

J. Henry Turrell, widely known as a member of the Trexler-Turrell Lumber company of Noxen and Ricketts, died suddenly at his home at Noxen on Sunday, death being due to an internal hemorrhage. He had not been confined to his bed at all and his sudden death came as a great shock to his family and business associates.

Mr. Turrell was a man of modest and unassuming character, and yet by virtue of his indomitable industry and great ability he built up a great lumber business which is second to none in the state and amassed a large fortune. He was a man of generous and kindly disposition and was well beloved by his employees and all with whom hecame in contact.

Mr. Turrell was born on May 21, 1850, the son of James H. Terrull, near Sugar Run, Bradford county. All the education he ever received was in the public schools of the township in the old academy at Wyalusing, which he left at the early age of 17 years and embarked in the lumber business at Sugar Run. He made a success of the enterprise, in which he continued for a number of years, and on Jan.6 , 1890, was married at Sugar Run to Miss Rewena E. Horton, herself a native of Bradford county.

About the same time the firm of Trexler, Turrell & Co., was formed, and the new firm built the first saw mill at Lopez and entered upon the task of developing the hitherto untouched and vast lumber tracts in that territory. A few years later, in 1889, the Trexler-Turrell Lumber Co. was formed, consisting of Col. Harry C. Trexler, Col. R. Bruce Ricketts and Mr. Turrell, the latter being the manager of the business.

Other large tracts of lumber were developed by this firm and large mills were built at Ricketts and Noxen. In this firm Mr. Turrell remained until the time of his death, being recognized as one of the most successful lumber men of the state.

He is survived by his wife and four children—Misses Anna and Mina and Messrs. J. Elmer and George. The funeral will take place from the late residence in Wilkes-Barre, Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be made at Hollenback cemetery.

Many changes have been recommended, which, when adopted, will make the service in this county, in the language of Inspector Conway, the best mail service in any county in the United States. While all the changes asked for by the patrons of the routes have not been recommended by the inspectors to the department, the majority have, either entirely or in modified form. TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

ing. Our faces are physical, but there is something in us higher and more beautiful than the body. Hearing, thinking, feeling and doing are logical steps. We should be sure that our teaching has such power as shall bring effective feeling into doing. Get into the spirit of what you teach.

Mr. Yetter led in singing two songs. Mr. Albert changed his subject and continued the talk of the morning on "Industrial Geography." This talk begun where the speaker closed last year. Learning the location, surface, climate and soil. The next topic was products, then occupations, industries. "Give pupils the power to know where to find what they want. In the South cotton is king; five of our states raise double the amount of cotton raised by the rest of the world.

Green county, Pennsylvania, is the wealthiest piece of land from a mineral standpoint. Coal tar is another valuable bi-product, 35 different products being made from it.

Singing followed as a rest. The last speaker of the afternoon was Dr. Pattengill, on "An Educational Sandwich." Your skill to arouse, hold and attend. Attention is the one safe, sure serviceable, attainable quality. It will grow in the poorest soil and in time bring forth both flowers and fruit. The lack of power to attend makes a character infirm in purpose. Train the child's non-voluntary attention and show him that all power and skill come from attending.

Questions and queries were collected. Mr. Lott made an announcement concerning the book "Local Government in Pennsylvania," which he would sell for 10 cents.

Panama, Present and Future.

The illustrated lecture upon the Panama canal given last evening by Edward Burton MacDowell, at the Opera House, was the means of presenting to a large audience a most enlightening exposition of this important subject.

The lecturer showed about 150 views most of which were made from photographs taken by himself during a visit to the isthmus for the express purpose of studying the subject.

Mr. MacDowell began by reviewing breifly, the history of the territory and the different attempts made to complete a canal. One point he made was that the present effort would result in the completion of the water way, as the American people desired it and the American government was in the habit of giving the nation what it desired. The moving pictures showing the work now being done, the laborers at work and the present state of construction at various points, were remarkably realistic and seemed almost as good as an actual visit to the scene of operations without any of the discomforts or perils. A large and locally representative audience occupied neardy all of the room not in use by the teachers.

TWELVE PARTY SQUARES.

November Ballot Will Be a Large One With Many New Parties.

The parties entitled to squares on the ballot this year are as follows:

Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, Socialist, Socialist-Labor, Citizen, City, Commonwealth, Jefferson, Lincoln, Referendum and Union Labor.

There are many other parties that have filed papers in the state department claiming certain party names for judgeships, legislative and congressional nominations, and in some counties there will be as many as 14 squares on the ticket. Among the names pre-empted are Mitchell, Pennsylvania, Blacksmith, Roosevelt, Square Deal, Senatorial, Judicial Reform, Butler Republican and Federation.

Timely and Valuable Suggestions.

Many people, especially women who lead closely confined domestic lives, suffer from what in general terms is called "nervousness." Y., which promotes an easy and natural action of the digestive organs and imparts tone to the nervous system.

A Forty Pound Melon.

At the home of Hiram Borrows, in West Franklin, is a watermelon weighing 40 pounds, which grew on Mr. Burrows's place, and has just been taken from the vines. In this year of second crops, record harvests, freak products and general prosperity, the West Franklin man is anxious to learn if any Bradford county man has exceeded him in the raising of watermelons.

MR. KIPP'S LETTER.

Document in Which He Accepts Congressional Nomination.

To the Voters of the Democratic and Lincoln Republican Parties of the Fourteenth Congressional District:

I accept the nominations of your parties have severally tendered to me for the office of Congressman of said district. I am deeply sensible of the honor conferred and the trust reposed by these nominations. I pledge my support of the principles enunciated in the respective platforms and my best endeavors, if elected, to aid in carrying into effect the great reforms in this state which these two parties have undertaken to accomplish.

That man is not awake who does not realize the need of political reform and regeneration in this state. The time has arrived for a new birth of public virtue and civic righteousness, the time for sounding a death knell to official robbery and public plunder, monopolies maintained by rebates and government by trusts, the general profligacy and moral degeneracy in the public life of our state.

It is not a question of parties, but patriotism. It is not a question of national issues, but present conditions in Pennsylvania. To this end the Democratic party of Bradford county has endorsed all the Republican nominees for the legislature in that county. All patriotic citizens, irrespective of past party affiliations, have united, for this year of 1906, in a combined effort to rescue the good name and fair fame of this grand old Keystone state from the slime and mire into which the corrupt political machines in their devilish chicanery, "masquerading under the name Republican," have dragged it.

No intelligent observer of the signs of the times questions that Emery and the whole fusion ticket ought and will be elected. It is in the air. Stuart has already announced that this campaign is tiresome.

It has been argued that the election of congressmen should not enter into the question of these state issues. But I submit that the congressman exercises a very potent influence in local and state matters. His position and control of patronage give him a power that he would not otherwise have. Those who are working the hardest and shouting the loudest to continue the old regime are the ones for whom my opponent has been "shaking the plum tree." If the reform is to be genuine and complete the congressman of the district should be in sympathy with it, not nominally so, but actually. Is my opponent such? The Republicans of Bradford county, where he lives, have already passed judgment upon him. In the recent Republican primaries for nomination to the legislature two candidates were overwhelmingly defeated because they were supposed to be controlled and under the influence of the present congressman, and more than that a most excellent man and Republican was defeated by a Democrat for sheriff last Fall for the same reason. Does the thrifty farmer fighting thistles simply cut off the blossoms? The stalk and roots if left will produce more blossoms of the same kind next year. I have read in a book with which Democrats and Lincoln Republicans are familiar, that a corrupt tree cannot bring forth good fruit and that every tree which brings forth evil fruit should be hewn down and cast into the fire.

I think all intelligent and patriotic voters will agree that in order to have effectual political reform in this state it is absolutely essential that Boies Penrose should cease to be a U. S. senator and eliminated from Pennsylvania politics. But his representative in this district is my worthy opponent, the present congressman, who is not only under great obligations to him, but his very faithful follower. And two years hence when that gentleman will be up for re-election, his said representative here, if then a congressman, will be found using every effort in his power and all the patronage of his office to aid his chief. Do the people of this district want it so?

It has been said that Republicans cannot vote for me as Roosevelt must be supported. Let me ask what Pennsylvania Democrat has failed to support Roosevelt in any of his great measures of reform? Roosevelt at heart embodies the ideals of a true Democrat. It is a matter of history that if it had not been for the Democratic support given to him the principal reform measures of the last session would not have become laws. And let me further inquire from my worthy competitor how much support he gave to Mr. Roosevelt at the last session on the question of our tariff relations with the Philippines?

I can here pledge my word and honor that in every reform measure of the character of which Mr. Roosevelt has been advocating in the past he will have my full and hearty support.

I believe that the time has arrived when the trusts and great corporations of this country should be brought under strict governmental supervision and control. That they should pay a larger share of the expenses of government. It is a notorious fact that farm lands have to pay taxes out of all proportion to the benefits they receive, and I am in favor of a revision of the tax laws that will place a larger proportion of the taxes upon the railroads and other large interests so that they shall be proportionate to the franchises and special privileges they enjoy. I believe that railroad fares should be reduced to a flat rate of two cents a mile maximum. I agree with President Roosevelt that the great insurance corporations should be brought under government supervision. The excessive rates they are levying are out of all proportion to the risks they are assuming and the large dividends their stockholders are reaping.

In conclusion let me say that if elected to the high office for which I have been nominated I shall consider myself the representative of all the people of this district for whom it will be my pleasure to be of such service as I can and my earnest effort to secure for each "a square deal."

MR. KIPP ON THE TOBACCO BILL.

"And let me further inquire from my worthy competitor, how much support he gave to Mr. Roosevelt at the last session on the question of our tariff relations with the Philippines?"

This is an extract from the letter of acceptance of George W. Kipp, the Democratic nominee for Congress. The Reporter Journal will gladly answer the inquiry.

The bill was only voted on in the House and was graded to take off a portion of the duty every year for three years, at the end of which time, tobacco and sugar from the Philippines would be admitted free. The bill never came to vote in the Senate. Sixty Republicans voted against it nearly all of whom were warm supporters of the president. Among those recorded against the bill were Representatives Dresser, Lapean, Smith, Wanger and Lilley of Pennsylvania, as showing the feeling of the tobacco growers of this state toward the bill the recent action of the Tobacco Growers association of Lancaster county is significant. A resolution was adopted by that body thanking these gentlemen for their aid in preventing the passage of he Philippine bill.

Bradford county has many tobacco growers, and today they are grateful to our member in Congress for helping to defeat the bill. Every tobacco grower in the United States was glad the bill was killed. The Sugar Trust and the Tobacco Trust were active in the lobby and did their utmost to get the bill passed. Why wouldn't they? Its passage would help their business.

President Roosevelt wants a bill passed which will reduce the tariff on sugar and tobacco coming from the Philippines, and such a bill Mr. Lilley will vote for. For a bill which takes the tariff off entirely, he will not vote for. Mr. Kipp has blundered in bringing up this matter of the duty on tobacco from the Philippines. If he had been wise he would have kept still about it.

Mr. Lilley's record on every bill on which he voted is open to inspection and of his vote on the Philippine tobacco and sugar bill, he desires to say that he has not a word of apology for it Not one word. Furthermore he hereby says to every tobacco grower in this Congressional District that if a similar bill is introduced at the next session, he will vote against it. He is proud of his voice against the bill and wants every voter to know that he will do it again if he has the chance. The Philippinos, whether Mr. Kipp knows it or not, raise their tobacco dirt cheap. They are subject to but a small fraction of the expense in their work that a grower in Pennsylvania has to meet. They "pick their living off the trees." The laborers go half naked and can be hired for a few cents a day. They are scarcely yet in civilization and because of a tropical climate, the Tobacco Trust can go there and raise tobacco at a figure far below what it costs a Pennsylvania grower, and then send it to the United States free of duty if Mr. Kipp and the Free-Trade-loving-Democratic party have their way.

Mr. Lilley voted against such a thing. From the fact that George W. Kipp has raised the question and put Mr. Lilley on the witness stand we have a right to infer that he would vote for it. How do the tobacco growers of this district like the views of the Democratic nominee?

The Republican nominee for Congress, Mr. Lilley, will vote for a bill advocating a reasonable reduction in the tarifff on tobacco from the Philippines and that is the kind of a bill President Roosevelt wants, but for free Philippine tobacco, he will not vote.

Now, Candidate Kipp, as you seem desirous of asking questions, we presume you will answer one relative to the same matter. How would you vote on a bill to put Philippine tobacco on the free list?

After remarking that we have consumed 26,782,700 barrels of salt this year, the Louisville Courier-Journal impressively inquires: "Haven't we a right to be thirsty?"

Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for governor of New York, is 44 years old, and W. R. Hearst, the opposing candidate, is 43.

MR. LILLEY'S RECORD.

The unwarranted attack upon the public and private life of Congressman Mial E. Lilley, which is being made by his political enemies in Bradford county has aroused his friends as they were never aroused before. Mr. Lilley emphatically declines to be put on the defensive in this campaign by stooping to deny the false and libelous statements which are being circulated by those who seek to accomplish his defeat by the election of a Democrat. However, it has been thought proper to place before the voters of the Fourteenth district some of the facts relative to his official vote and public services. The record shows him to be a faithful public servant who has been alive at all times, to the interests of his constituents. He is a man of integrity and possesses an ability and strength of purpose which placed him in the front rank among our national law makers.

The duties which devolve upon a member of congress are many and arduous. How well Mr. Lilley has performed them will be seen by reviewing what he has accomplished.

His Loyalty to the Soldiers.

From the fourth of March, 1905, to date Mr. Lilley has given personal attention to 349 claims for pension. This has involved a vast amount of labor, the writing of thousands of letters, and in some cases spending days at a time in the pension office looking up the records and briefing the testimony. He has been successful in 138 cases, and 184 are still pending; 27 have been finally rejected. Those who are familiar with this kind of work will readily understand the amount of time Mr. Lilley has devoted to the cause of the soldier and their appreciation of his efforts in their behalf will manifest itself in clear and unmistakable terms at the November election.

His Loyalty to President Roosevelt.

When Mr. Lilley was elected he pledged himself to support the policies of President Roosevelt, and how well he has performed that service is well known to every voter in the district. He invites the most careful inspection of every vote and public or private utterance of his during the first session of the fifty-ninth congress.

The last session of congress was the most memorable in the history of the country. More wise laws, such as the Rate Bill, the Pure Food Bill, Panama Canal, the Naturalization Bill, etc., were enacted than ever before at any one session, and Mr. Lilley was present and voted in favor of every one of them. During the heat of debate upon these questions and when the President was urging their passage Mr. Lilley was honored by being invited to address the Union Republican club at Philadelphia. On this occasion he placed himself squarely with the President when he said: "We must not forget that the tremendous majority of two years ago which none of us looked for, and which few of us understood, was an evidence of the breaking down of party lines, affording opportunity for men of all parties to testify to their belief in the spotless integrity, the great wisdom and daring courage of that marvelous exponent of Republicanism and leader of advanced thought and action, Theodore Roosevelt. It might be well for us to remember that he still enjoys the respect and confidence of the people to an extent never before equalled by any President during his incumbency in office."

In Favor of Reform Legislation.

In the same address Mr. Lilley placed himself squarely in favor of allowing the trolley railroads to carry freight, the abolition of the fee system, the regulation of freight and passenger rates, the abolition of free passes to office holders and the equalization of taxes. His language was clear and unequivical and was as follows: "It behooves us not only to select our candidates with care, but to pledge ourselves unreservedly to the adoption of those reform measures which are demanded and will be adopted, such as the removal of the embargo which has been placed upon trolley roads; the total abolition of the fee system in county and state offices; the just and reasonable regulation of freight and passenger rates upon steam roads, the abatement of the intolerable nuisance of being required to deposit ten dollars with the company in order to obtain a two-cent rate, the nailing down of the lid to the trunk which contains the free passes by the enactment of a law to carry out the provision of the Constitution which forbids their issue, and the adoption of a better system of assessing the stock, corporate property and franchises of corporations, and then requiring them to pay the average tax imposed upon real estate. When this is done the state can assume the whole burden of supporting the public schools and building the public roads. No good reason can be given why the individual's home shelters his family should pay a higher tax than the property of corporations."

The Equalization of Taxation.

Following out his declaration in favor of the adoption of a better system of assessing the stock, corporate property and franchises of corporations, Mr. Lilley has been busily engaged in drafting a bill to accomplish this purpose. He has consulted with eminent people in the state who are interested in this measure and has the bill practically prepared. It will be introduced by some member of the Pennsylvania legislature, and Mr. Lilley and those who are acting with him will spend considerable time at Harrisburg urging its passage. In a conversation with a prominent gentleman the other day Mr. Lilley said; "The present law levies a tax of five mills upon the actual value of the stock of corporations and this value is fixed by one man, the auditor-general. It is too much authority to give any one person, and I favor the enactment of a law providing for a board which shall assess the stock according to law and make the assessment public in the same manner that real estate assessments are made before the taxes are paid. The state revenues amount to about $28,000,000 and the expenditures are between $23,000,000 and $24,000,000, giving us a surplus of a little over $4,000,000. If the capital stock of corporations was assessed at its actual cash value and the tax increased to seven mills the state revenues would amount to nearly $40,000,000. It could pay all of our school taxes and perform a great work on the public roads, and the corporate property of the state would then be assuming something nearer its fair share of the burdens of taxation.

His Loyalty to Railroad Employees.

When the Railroad Rate Bill was up for discussion in the House it contained a clause prohibiting the railroad companies from granting passes to their employees and their families. Mr. Lilley again demonstrated his loyalty to his constituents. He was the only member of the House to attack that provision of the bill, and his language was again clear and unequivocal as may be seen from the following extract from the Congressional Record: "Mr. Speaker, I would be glad, indeed, if this House today and in this hour could put the seal of its disapproval on that clause in this bill which says that railroad employees and their families cannot be furnished free transportation by their employer. How it came in this bill I do not know, but if it was put in in good faith the man who placed it there forgot the engineer leaning far out in his cab with his eye on the rail all night, and the passenger asleep, and sleeping because he knew the man was there. He forgot the rear brakeman, who often stands out in the storm with the thermometer below zero, guarding the rear of the train, while he sleeps because he knows the man is there. I would be glad if we could put the seal of our disapproval upon that clause now. I find no fault with the leadership which says this is not the proper time, but I shall find fault and I shall not vote for the bill if that clause is not eliminated. Fully one-fourth of the residents of my district are directly affected by this bill. And I ask you now, I ask my friends upon my side of the House, and, while I am here on the Cherokee strip, upon the other side, I ask you not to place us in the position of going home to our constituents with having even to vote upon such a proposition, and I ask the conferees when it gets back to them to see that it is taken out."

One effect of the disgraceful attack which is being made upon Mr. Lilley has been to cause the railroad employees to rally to his support without regard to past party affiliations. They are writing him hundreds of letters pledging him their support and denounce his detractors.

CURRENCY PLANS.

So far no currency elasticity scheme has escaped severe criticism nor obtained anything like wide approval and support, and the question now arises with bankers and currency students will think of the plan agreed upon by the American Bankers' association, which contains at least one novel feature. It recommends the legislation authorizing banks to issue "credit or clearance currency" to an amount not to exceed 50 per cent, of their respective bond-secured issues, and proposes that these asset-secured notes be taxed at the rate of 1 per cent. per annum, the proceeds to go into a redemption fund. To these familiar provisions it adds the one we have just alluded to as novel—that a permanent commission be created by congress, the president to have the appointing of the members—to consider all applications for such special note issues, pass upon them and determine the length of time that they shall, or may, remain in circulation. The expenses of this body are to be paid out of the circulation fund.

Granting the need of greater elasticity in our bank note circulation, the problem is how to secure absolute safety. It is understood that European bankers, who have had experience with emergency circulation, have been appealed to to furnish light. Secretary Shaw has favored the German arrangement of a heavily taxed emergency issue of additional circulation secured by assets of unquestioned soundness; but he has invited suggestions from all competent sources with the idea of evolving a plan that would command the approval of the great majority of bankers, students and legislators.

ACROSS THE BORDER.

The Tioga county (N. Y.) Record, for 35 years issued as an independent weekly newspaper, at Owego, comes out this week squarely for the Republican ticket. In the remarkable campaign being waged between factions in the county, the Owego Times the official Republican paper, refuses to support the Republican nominee for the assembly, and members of the Republican county committee are openly supporting the Democratic candidate for the same office. This state of affairs comes about through the effort of Byram L. Winters of Smithboro, a millionaire dairy farmer, to enter county politics against the wishes of the local party managers. The success of the Democrats may result through the stubborneness of the factional leaders, both of whom appear to be ready to sacrifice party to personal interests.

Les see; when was it Waverly voted to own its water works system? And who is it now owns the plant?

KIPP'S SUPPORT OF ROOSEVELT.

In his letter of acceptance George W. Kipp, the Democratic nominee for congress argues that Republicans can as safely support him as Mial E. Lilley, the Republican nominee, because he (Kipp) is going to support Roosevelt in reform measures because some Democratic congressmen have already done that, and because the President "at heart, embodies his ideals of a true Democrat." This reads well and is quite specious on Mr. Kipp's part. But it won't fool many. The why and the wherefore of the congressional contest in the Fourteenth district is too plain to be obscured by fine words. No flim-flamming, Mr. Kipp.

Can it be that Mr. Kipp claims that if Mr. Roosevelt voted in this congressional district he could best support himself (Roosevelt) by voting for him (Kipp)? Mr. Kipp may think so but Mr. Roosevelt don't.

Mr. Roosevelt has a clear idea of what is what in this fight for the control of congress. It might be expected that he would have. Speaking generally, he sees things as they are and is not easily deceived. Level headed, is this man Roosevelt. It is not overstating the matter to say that his judgment as to which kind of a congress, Republican or Democratic, will give him best support, is superior to Mr. Kipp's. If we can get Mr. Roosevelt's opinion on this matter it will, no doubt, carry weight with Mr. Kipp, because the latter in his letter of acceptance makes it plain that he is an admirer of the President.

Well, what does the President say, about turning congress over to the Democrats? A few weeks ago he wrote to Congressman Watson of Indiana, as follows:

Oyster Bay, N. Y.
Aug. 18, 1906.

"My Dear Mr. Watson:—I hear through Speaker Cannon and Representative Sherman, that you have volunteered to give your services to the Congressional Committee for the entire campaign, without regard to the effect it may have upon your canvass in your own district; and I feel like writing you a word of congratulttion and of earnest hope for the success of your efforts. If there were only partisan issues involved in this contest I should hesitate to say anything publicly in reference thereto. On the contrary, I feel that all good citizens who have the welfare of America at heart should appreciate the immense amount that has been accomplished by the present congress organized as it is, and the urgent need of keeping this organization in power. With Mr. Cannon as speaker, the house has accomplished a literally phenomenal amount of good work. It has shown a courage, good sense and patriotism such that it would be a real and serious misfortune for the country to fail to recognize. To change the leadership and organization of the House at this time means to bring confusion upon those who have been successfully engaged in the steady working out of a great and comprehensive scheme for the betterment of our social, industrial and civic conditions. Such a change would substitute a purposeless confusion, a violent and hurtful oscillation between the positions of extreme radical and the extreme reactionary, for the present ordinary progress along the lines of a carefully thought out policy."

This is very much to the point, and it shows clearly what President Roosevelt thinks of this claim of Mr. Kipp's that the administration can be supported by electing Democratic congressmen. The President is everlastingly right, and Mr. Kipp is everlastingly wrong. If it be the desire of any voter of the Fourteenth congressional district—be he a Republican, Lincoln Republican, Democratic, Prohibitionist or anything else—to hold up the President's hands in the great work he has to do, let him vote for Mial E. Lilley for congress. To do otherwise would, in the language of the President, invite "confusion upon those who have been successfully engaged in the steady working out of a great and comprehensive scheme for the betterment of our social, industrial and civic conditions."

LETTER TO MR. KIPP.

Towanda, Pa., Oct. 9th, 1906.

Mr. Geo. W. Kipp,

Towanda, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Kipp:—

I notice in your letter accepting the nomination for Member of Congress upon the Democratic ticket, you attack my record as a sincere supporter of President Roosevelt, and assume to be a more loyal supporter of his than I am. If this is true, you ought to be elected, and are entitled to the vote of Republicans.

I suggest as a means of informing the voters of the Fourteenth Congressional District as to the exact facts in the case, that you and I meet in joint debate in Towanda, Tunkhannock, Honesdale and Montrose, the dates to be fixed to suit your convenience.

This method of campaigning is time-honored, and has the sanction of usage by illustrious men and American patriots since the foundation of our government. There is no better way to "clear the air" than by the joint debate.

If you agree to this proposition, and I hope you will, you will have liberty to criticise my votes and acts at the last session of Congress, and to state your position fully and freely. I will have liberty to defend my votes and acts and state my position.

If you desire it, I will furnish you a copy of the Congressional Record covering the last session.

Hoping to hear from you soon and favorably to this, I am,

Yours very truly,
MIAL E. LILLEY.

WHAT ABOUT CONGRESSMEN?

The Press has constantly urged that, except as there are valid and imperative special reasons to the contrary in special districts, the Republican candidates for congress should have no opposition from Republicans. We wish to emphasize this policy and to show the substantial grounds on which it rests.

Note first what we have done in Philadelphia. Here in this city we have six districts, all Republican. In several of these districts the Lincoln Republicans or City Party had a clear majority last November. Yet in only one of the six is there any Republican antagonism to the regular Republican candidate, and that case is exceptional. This refusal to nominate opposing candidates was deliberate, and it shows the view which prevails here.

But in the interior of the state there are several districts in which the Lincoln Republicans, without, as we believe, any good reason or sufficient justification, have named candidates against the regular Republican nominees. In some these candidates have been indorsed by the Democrats, and and in some the two elements of opposition have each its own candidate. The course followed has been precisely the reverse of that which the reformers have adopted in Philadelphia.

Why should there be any Republican opposition to Mr. Olmstead or Mr. Acheson or Mr. Wagner or Mr. Lafean or Mr. Lilley. We know what is said in defense of this opposition and we shall very frankly meet it. Two reasons are given. It is said, in the first place, that these congressmen are parts of the Machine, that with their patronage they serve as bulwarks of its strength, and that to beat them is to beat the Machine. It is said, in the second place, that some of them opposed the President's policy on regulation of corporations until they were constrained by a caucus to fall in and that to fight them is to support the President.

Suppose we grant the premise on both points, does the conclusion follow? We think not. Concede that the congressmen belong to the Machine, you can't do everything at once. Isn't it better to strike the Machine at its center than to scatter the fire and so weaken the blow at the vital point? If you pierce the heart you destroy the being; but if you undertake to aim at the lesser members you miss the bull's eye. If the congressmen belong to the Machine it is because the ruling power constrains them; if you overthrow the ruling power you break the constraint.

Take the second reason, that some of the congressmen opposed the President's policy until compelled to fall in. But the President wants them elected; he wants a sure Republican congress; are you more devoted to the President than he is to himself—more in favor of his policy than he is of his own? He doesn't interfere in your contest in the state; is it wise for you to interfere in what may be called his contest for a supporting congress? Is it judicious to push a course which may excite a fear that your movement endangers congress or give color to a claim that it must be opposed in order to prevent it from going too far?

We speak now from the standpoint of those who are sustaining these opposing candidates. We do not here dwell on the merits of the present members—their experience, their ability to help their districts, their high position in congress growing out of long service. Serious-minded men ought not to lose sight of these considerations. But for the present we are treating the matter wholly from the point of view of the critics and questioners. In our judgment looking only to the interest of the general cause in which they are engaged they are making a mistake.

If they want to support the President they ought to follow him when he asks for a Republican congress. If they want to justify and strengthen him in keeping his hands off from the state fight they ought not to give any warrant for the claim that their movement means more than a state fight. If they want to down the Machine they ought to strike at its vitals—Philadelphia Press.

It is estimated that from twelve to fourteen millions of dollars' damage was wrought on property by the Gulf storm in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana, last week, yet nothing as far as any dispatches show, indicates that any use was made by the inhabitants of the storm-swept tract of the timely warning that was given them by the government weather bureau. Yet the track and progress of the cyclone had been noted and announced for days before it reached the coast, and it would seem as if much might have been done in preparation for its arrival.

Critics of W. R. Hearst state that he is not old enough to be governor of New York, while Hughes, the opposing candidate, is sufficiently mature for all practical purposes. They make sharp distinctions in New York. Hearst is 43 years of age and Hughes 44.—Wilkes-Barre News.

Precisely. But some intellects require more than years to make them mature. Separated in age by one year, Hughes and Hearst are ages apart in much that makes for good citizenship.

Again it has been determined that spanking is legally profitable unto children. This time the case at bar is that of Morris Johnson, a Lower Merion boy who persisted in running away with players' tennis balls. Its a mighty good thing it wasn't golf balls he tried to pinch, or it would have been a coffin instead of a spank.

WHO WOULD YOU VOTE FOR MR. KIPP?

Mr. George W. Kipp is the Democratic candidate for congress in the Fourteenth district, and although he has been nominated but a few days, he has already formed the habit of asking questions of Mr. Lilley, the Republican and Lincoln Republican nominee. Now we will ask him one. We are led to ask it because in his letter of acceptance he assures the voters that President Roosevelt will have his "full and hearty support in reform measures." This sounds very sweet but it should be remembered that Mr. Kipp is doing his handsomest to catch Republican votes.

Suppose, Mr. Kipp, you are elected to congress next month. You would then take your seat at the opening of the sixtieth congress—say December, 1907. The Republican candidate for Speaker of the House will be, probably, Honorable Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois, and Honorable John Sharp Williams of Mississippi may possibly be the candidate of the Democrats. Now, in your anxiety to support a Republican President, which candidate for Speaker of the House would you vote for? You understand, presumably, that the Speaker of the House is an all important official. He shapes legislation more than any member of that body. He can do more to help or hinder the President than any other member of congress.

In response to a demand from the public, fenders have been placed on the street cars operating between Waverly and Athens.

COUNTY HEATING PLANT HAS COME.

Shipment of Heavy Iron Delayed by Congested Freight Traffic.

Word was received late Thursday afternoon at the county commissioner's office that the big steam heating plant, which will henceforth be used to heat the county buildings here, had arrived and was ready to be transferred to the place of its installation.

The heavy shipment was made several days ago from the manufacturers, and word to that effect was sent on to the commissioners, who have been waiting to receive the goods. A delay, due to the heavy freight traffic on all railroads at this time, has put the work back a few days. However, everything is in readiness here to proceed with the work, and it is fully expected that the court house and the jail will be receiving their own heat by the time the real cold weather comes.

THE TROUBLES OF GEORGE.

Former Notorious Towanda Colored Man Jailed at Owego.

George Carter, a colored barber, went to his home in Waverly Tuesday night of last week, under the influence of liquor, abused and beat his wife, and broke some of the furniture. His wife followed him into the street, where he again assaulted her. He ran over the Pennsylvania line to escape Policeman Corcoran. He afterward returned and the officer attempted to arrest him. Carter showed fight, but was soon subdued. Justice Hoagland sentenced him to six months in the county jail.

Carter is familiar with jail life. In the Spring of 1899 he was sentenced to six months in Owego jail for intoxication in that village and fighting Officer Allen, who arrested him. He escaped from the chain gang, and was not captured until seven months afterward. In the Summer of 1901 he was arrested at Towanda for attempting to break into Mrs. A. L. Mowry's house in this village, but the grand jury found no indictment against him on account of lack of evidence to convict. In March, 1904, he and Samuel Heeman attempted to rob a Wheelerville man in the street at Towanda. For this crime Carter served a sentence of 30 days in the Bradford county jail. He was also implicated with one of the Heemans in stealing telephone wire in Binghamton a year or two ago.

MAIL CARRIER FOUND DEAD.

Albert Freeman of Burlington, Met His Death While on Duty.

Albert Freeman of Burlington, mail carrier of R. F. D. route No. 50, running from Burlington toward Troy, was found dead in his carriage while on the return trip Saturday afternoon, heart trouble being given as the cause of his demise. Mr. Freeman was a traveling man for a number of years and finally gave up his position and took the mail route on account of his health. He was about 51 years of age, and is survived by his wife.

A large number of friends attended the funeral services of the late Albert Freeman of Burlington, whose death occurred last week, while he was driving his R. F. D. wagon over his route. A prayer service was held at the family home, at which the Rev. J. J. Yerdon officiated. The body was taken to the Burlington M. E. church, where a funeral address was given. Interment was in Mountain Lake cemetery.

Among those in attendance were a number of representatives of Towanda Tribe, No. 359, I. O. R. M., and the following members of the order acted as pall bearers: Charles Potter, C. MacNamara, Jr., Robert Coon, Thomas Fitzgerald, Oliver Snively, H. E. Post. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Among these was a wreath, sent by patrons of the route Mr. Freeman had carried so faithfully.

The services at the grave were conducted according to the Red Men's ritual, being read by Prophet C. P. Vosburgh, and Sachem L. H. Stedge. A large number of Red Men from different parts of Bradford county attended.

Allen—Terry.

J. H. Allen and Miss Pearl Terry, both of Evergreen, were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson, on Wednesday, Oct. 3, the ceremony taking place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. M. D. Lyke being the officiating clergyman. The bride was gowned in drab landsdowne. After a fine luncheon the bridal pair took their departure for Elmira and expect to visit Ithaca before they return. The best wishes of a large circle of friends go with them.

Canton Man Injured.

Harvey Jenkins of Canton, was painfully injured at West LeRoy last week. He was one of the construction crew of the new railroad, and was at work splicing a chain around a heavy timber preparatory to hoisting it to the trestle. The horse attached to the other end of the chain gave a sudden lurch, and both hands were caught between the chain and lumber and badly injured. The thumb on one hand was broken and several fingers of the other hand crushed.

TUNKHANNOCK TROUBLE IN DAUPHIN COURT.

Attorneys Bring Case to Trial Thursday at Harrisburg.

In the Dauphin county court tomorrow will be opened the case of the contesting conferees of the Fourteenth congressional district of this state, in which the delegates from Bradford county will try to show that the recent convention of the Lincoln party at Tunkhannock nominated George Kipp, while the delegates from the other counties in the district will contend that a substantial majority of the delegates desired to endorse Hon. Mial E. Lilley, of Towanda.

The firm of Snodgrass & Snodgrass will represent the Kipp interests, while Mr. Lilley has retained Samuel J. M. McCarroll, Hon. Guy H. Davis and Hon. Charles Bergner; all the attorneys are well known Pennsylvania legal lights, but it is believed by many that the argument will result in both nominations being declared void.

BANK CLEANS OUT POOR.

Former Wyalusing Pastor a Wreck Owing to Defalcation of Partner.

The Middleport bank, a private institution at Middleport, O., failed to open its doors on Friday and it is stated that all its deposits are missing, amounting to $115,000 and great excitement among the poor of that place prevails. Most of the depositors are poor people and their deposits represent nearly all their savings. The president of the bank is E. C. Fox and he is away and in his absence no official statement of the condition of the bank has yet been made.

President Fox went away on Tuesday, leaving Vice President T. S. Armentrout in charge. An examination of the vaults after Fox had gone revealed $3,000 in cash and papers worth less than $50,000 on their face to account for the $115,000 deposited. There was no supicion on the part of the public that the bank was in such a conditon until Armentrout closed the doors and filed a deed of assignment to W. F. Reed, president of the Farmers' bank of Pomeroy.

Armentrout was formerly a Presbyterian minister at Gallopolis, going from Wyalusing, where he had served a pastorate of a couple of years, to that place. On the solicitation of Fox he resigned the ministry the first of last June, converted his property into $6,000 and entered the bank as an equal partner with Fox, perfectly unaware of its financial condition. He has lost his $6,000 and is now almost a physical wreck over worrying about the outcome of his new enterprise.—Rocket.

Great Fishing.

About 20 years ago an artificial pond on the William B. Stevens place was stocked with carp. At the end of about ten years it was drained and at that time a quantity of carp was taken which was thought to be immense. On Saturday of last week David Morgan had the pond drained preparatory to cleaning out some rubbish and the depth sufficient for an ice pond. Upon getting the water drawn off, it was found that there were carp in the pond beyond imagination. On Monday the water had become low enough for people to wade in and get the fish and no less than a thousand were captured. Some of those taken were of unusual size and made the boys work with lightning speed and with the strength of Hercles.—LeRaysville Times.

Lehigh Tapped Again.

Twenty-seven hundred dollars damages was awarded Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hanlon of Wilkes-Barre, in their suit against the Lehigh Valley Railroad company. The verdict was received Thursday morning and awarded Mrs. Hanlon $2,000 for her injuries and Mr. Hanlon $700 as his loss for having his wife crippled. The case was opened on Tuesday and was brought for the recovery of $35,000 for injuries sustained by the plaintiffs, who claimed that Mrs. Hanlon was struck by a train operated by the defendant company at Avoca in August, 1901, and severely injured. Attorney M. H. McAniff represented the plaintiffs.

Johnsons Again Back in Fold.

Adelbert Johnson and his wife, Emma Johnson, were arrested at Athens and brought to the Towanda jail Saturday in default of bail, charged this time with larceny and receiving stolen property. They are held in $200 bail to await the action of the grand jury. This makes four arrests of members of the notorious family in connection with the burglary of the store of Bingham Brothers at Lockwood last week. The Johnsons are accused by the police with having in their possession a number of articles taken from the Lockwood store, and in the house in which they had been living, in Athens, a number of other articles, missed lately by residents of the neighborhood, were located. The police of Waverly, Sayre, and Athens are weaving a web which will send the prisoners on a good long journey this time, it is believed, for which the officers will receive a vote of thanks from the entire community.

Matters of the Court.

Letters of administration are granted to J. W. Hurst in the estate of Anna M. Braunhall, late of the township of Wyalusing, deceased. The will of Laura M. Estabrook, late of the borough of Athens, is admitted to probate and letters testamentary granted to Frank N. Estabrook. In the estate of Catherine J. Payne, the discharge of E. D. Payne, as administrator, is decreed. A public sale of real estate is decreed in the estate of Edwin Cramer.

TEST OF STRENGTH MADE OF CONCRETE.

Remarkable Textile Strength Shown in Concrete Abutment.

At the scene of the construction at the North Towanda Lehigh station an interesting experiment has been concluded by the workmen who put in the concrete piers for the new bridge. It is claimed by scientists that the form of concrete now being used in railroad bridge construction is stronger than natural rock, brick or any other material that is known to the craft. It is also claimed that the concrete grows stronger with age, and becomes like a solid piece of granite.

Eight weeks from the time that the wooden frames were removed from the new piers, a drill was inserted and an attempt made to bore a hole. It took five times as long to make a boring in the new concrete as in a corresponding piece of solid rock, and only the sharpest and neaviest drill could be used at all for the work. Several other tests of relative strength were made, and all showed the same remarkable results. As far as can be figured the new abutments are made to last as long as the earth's crust is there to support them.

ELY AND BRYAN ARRESTED.

Both Are Charged With Robbing Lehigh Valley Station at Ithaca.

Clarence Ely, a former operator for the Lehigh Valley, and Bert Bryant, the operator who said that he was asleep at his post at the time the $1,195 was stolen from the ticket office at the Lehigh's station in Ithaca on Monday last, have finally been placed under arrest.

Ely is the man who is suspected of the robbery. He has been frequently in the company of Bryant lately and it is believed that he stole the key to the money drawer from Bryant. Ely was well acquainted with the fact that the money drawer contained considerable money.

When the detectives went to arrest Ely they discovered that he had taken up a note for $75, purchased a suit for $20 and a pair of shoes for $5, besides making a young woman friend a handsome present. He had but $12.10 when arrested. Before the burglary Bryant says that Ely was broke.

The police do not believe that Bryant was connected with the robbery, but he has been placed under arrest to insure his presence at the trial of his friend Ely.

The Lehigh Valley detectives have succeeded in solving the mystery, if such it might be called, of the robbery of the Ithaca station on Monday morning, Oct. 1. Ely, one of the men under arrest, confessed and showed the officers where about $1,000 was hidden. Over $700 was found under a stone on the road to Watkins, and the balance buried under the platform of the Ithaca freight station.

Among the improvements and additions to the pretty library will be a fine new clock, which will be installed by Edward Mouillesseaux, at a cost of over $50, and is the gift of a well known Towanda lady. The floors will be refinished, and there will be a general renovation of things about the library.

BRADFORD COUNTY MEDICOS MEET.

Features of Monthly Session—Clinical Operation by Noted Specialist.

Great interest was imparted to the monthly meeting of the County Medical society which was held Tuesday afternoon in the grand jury room of the court house, through the presence of Dr. G. Betton Massey of the Oncologic hospital of Philadelphia. Dr. Massey performed an operation for epithelomia upon the lower lip of a patient who was brought from Smithfield. The operation was performed by the catapheresis method, electricity being used to destroy a growth which threatened the life of the patient. The clinic was attended by nearly every member of the society and a large number of visiting physicians.

Another feature of the meeting was the reading of a paper by Dr. Sidney A. Dunham, upon "Insanity in Borderline Cases, and suggestions for Its Treatment."

This paper was discussed by members of the society and also by Dr. Massey. The society voted on the name of Dr. Alfred G. Coughlin of Athens, who was unanimously elected to membership. A program committee for the ensuing year was appointed by the chair to consist of Drs. C. M. Pratt and T. Ben Johnson of Towanda, and M. C. Hunter of Sayre.

Among those present were Drs. F. G. Newton, S. M. Woodburn, T. Ben Johnson and T. B. Johnson, Charles Cummings of Sayre, E. M. Shepard, Burlington; C. L. Stevens, Athens; G. H. B. CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY.

Annual Meeting of the Local Advisory Board—Officers Elected.

The local advisory board of the Children's Home society of Pennsylvania held its annual meeting on Monday evening, Oct. 1, at the home of Mrs. Rendall. This meeting is always called when the Central Pennsylvania district missionary is in town.

Miss Nellie Caldwell now occupies that office, and she was present, and spoke feelingly in the interests of the work. The society is a national federation including 30 states, with Dr. Charles R. Henderson, of the Chicago university, as president. Its object is the placement of neglected or destitute children in christian homes. It is supported in the main by the membership dues of one dollar a year.

Kentucky alone has state aid. It is said to have had $25,000 from the state treasury last year.

Though the national society is now in its 24th year, Pennsylvania was not organized until eleven years ago, and the local advisory board is just entering its ninth year.

The state superintendent, Rev. W. H. Thompson, in his annual report states that more than a thousand names of children are filed who have been placed in homes and are under the supervision of the society.

The Needle Work guild of Towanda, through the board sends annually to the temporary receiving home at Pittsburg, a box of nice, new clothing.

The officers of the board for the ensuing year are: President, George Ridgeway; vice presidents, Dr. J. S. Stewart, Rev. Herbert H. Graves, Rev. Edwin A. Gernant, Dr. O. A. WAYNE FARMER MURDERED.

Waylaid and Killed on His Way Home After Seling His Stock.

Patrick Furey, an enterprising farmer of Preston, near Honesdale, was found Wednesday morning of last week, lying in the road with his skull fractured and in a dying condition. He died during the day.

Furey had been to Equinunk to sell hogs and was two miles from home when he was assaulted. His rifled pocketbook was picked up ten feet from where the body lay. His team was found two and one-half miles from the place, evidently having been used by the assailants to aid them in making their escape.

Mr. Maxwell to the Rescue.

While in Sayre on Saturday last, William Maxwell, one of Towanda's well known attorneys, took occasion to give an opinion of Sayre's vexing question as to the proper mode of procedure in securing for herself an adequate sewer system. "Build your sewer system, by all means, said Mr. Maxwell. "Don't let the Lehigh Valley, nor any other corporation stand in your way." Sayre appears to be torn with dissention as to whether the borough should first have a town hall, a sewer, or some other form of much needed improvement, and the arguments are serving but one purpose, which is to delay action of any sort. Last week, after it was supposed that a way had been found to go on with the work of raising funds with which to erect a new municipal building, the borough attorney found that there were divers and sundry obstacles in the way and the matter has again been postponed.

First Ward Affair.

Saturday Robert McMahon drew his pay from the P., B. and E., and Katy, his wife, alleges that he invited in a lot of his friends and had a hot old time during her absence. Sunday morning she missed the old family clock and found it ticking at the home of Perry Vanderpool. Perry explained that he had bought it from Peenie Kipp; Kipp claimed he had bought it from "Monkey-faced" Jim Vanderpool, who returned about a week ago from Cherry Hill. Peenie and "Monkey-face" were gathered in by Officers Watson and Hollon and will explain to Esquire Orcutt next Saturday how they came by the timepiece. They both have done time at Cherry Hill for stealing a time recorder in the shape of a watch from an old soldier. They are very anxious for an extension of time to prove their innocence. Time will tell the result.

President Declares His Policy In Harrisburg Speech.

EXPOUNDS THE CONSTITUTION

Broad Interpretation of It Necessary, He Says—Advocates Extension of Federal Power In Address at Dedication of Pennsylvania's New Capitol.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 4.—In the presence of the largest crowd that has ever gathered in Harrisburg the magnificent new capitol of Pennsylvania was dedicated with brief ceremonies in which President Roosevelt took an active part. Thousands stood in a drenching rain to hear the president.

Ex-Governor William A. Stone, president of the capitol building commission, in a brief address turned the building over to the governor, at the same time handing him a gold key.

Governor Pennypacker accepted the building on behalf of the people in a brief speech. When he concluded the governor introduced President Roosevelt, who delivered the principal address of the day. The president wore a rain coat and spoke bareheaded in the rain.

President Roosevelt began his address with a eulogy of Pennsylvania, on whose soil the Declaration of Independence was signed and the constitutional convention was held, where Washington at Valley Forge saved the republic, where Gettysburg saved the Union. Pennsylvania was fittingly called, he said, the Keystone State. He congratulated the state not only on its record in the earlier history of the country, but also on the example it has given to other states in the past year by its wise and constructive legislation, the abolition of passes, the reform of the ballot and protection of the elective franchise, the improvement of the civil service in state and cities, the prohibition of corporation campaign contributions. Of this last named act he said, "It is a provision which I most earnestly hope will in substance be embodied likewise in a law by congress at the coming session."

Child Labor.

Continuing, he praised the new child labor law, but advised that it be strengthened and more rigorously enforced. "If all our state legislatures," he said, "would act as drastically and yet as wisely on this subject of child labor as Pennsylvania has acted within the present year as regards the subjects I have enumerated above the gain would be literally incalculable and one of the most vital needs of modern American life would at last be adequately met."

The president then turned to the discussion of the evils produced by the extraordinary industrial changes of the last half century. He said:

Some of these evils can be grappled with by private effort only, but many are of such a nature that no private effort can avail against them. These evils, therefore, must be grappled with by governmental action. In some cases this governmental action must be exercised by the several states individually. In others it has become increasingly evident that no efficient state action is possible and that we need through executive action, through legislation and through judicial interpretation and construction of law to increase the power of the federal government.

Denounces Corporation Lawyers.

If we fail thus to increase it we show our impotence and leave ourselves at the mercy of those ingenious legal advisers of the holders of vast corporate wealth, who in the performance of what they regard as their duty and to serve the ends of their clients invoke the law at one time for the confounding of their rivals and at another time strive for the nullification of the law in order that they themselves may be left free to work their unbridled will on these same rivals or on those who labor for them or on the general public. In the exercise of their profession and in the service of their clients these astute lawyers strive to prevent the passage of efficient laws and strive to secure judicial determinations of those that pass which shall emasculate them. They do not invoke the constitution in order to compel the due observance of law alike by rich and poor, by great and small; on the contrary, they are ceaselessly on the watch to cry out that the constitution is violated whenever any effort is made to invoke the aid of the national government, whether for the efficient regulation of railroads, for the efficient supervision of great corporations or for efficiently securing obedience to such a law as the national eight hour law and similar so called "labor statutes."

The doctrine they preach would make the constitution merely the shield of incompetence and the excuse for governmental paralysis. They treat it as a justification for refusing to attempt the remedy of evil instead of as the source of vital power necessary for the existence of a mighty and ever growing nation.

I cannot do better than base my theory of governmental action upon the words and deeds of one of Pennsylvania's greatest sons, Justice James Wilson.

In a remarkable letter, in which he advocated setting forth in early and clear fashion the powers of the national government, Justice Wilson laid down the proposition that it should be made clear that there were neither vacancies nor interferences between the limits of state and national jurisdiction and that both jurisdictions together composed only one uniform and comprehensive system of government and laws—that is, whenever the states cannot act because the need to be met is not one of merely a single locality then the national government, representing all the people, should have complete power to act. It was in the spirit of Wilson that Washington and Washington's lieutenant, Hamilton, acted, and it was in the same spirit that Marshall construed the law.

It is only by acting in this spirit that the national judges, legislators and executives can give a satisfactory solution of the great question of the present day—the question of providing on behalf of the sovereign people the means which will enable the people in effective form to assert their sovereignty over the immense corporations of the day. Certain judicial decisions have done just what Wilson feared; they have left blanks between the limits of possible state jurisdiction and the interests which oppose and dread any attempt to place them under efficient governmental control.

If we interpret the constitution in narrow instead of broad fashion, if we forsake the principles of Washington, Marshall, Wilson and Hamilton, we as a people will render ourselves impotent to deal with abuses committed by the men who have accumulated the enormous fortunes of today and who use these fortunes in still vaster corporate form in business.

All honest men must abhor and reprobate any effort to excite hostility to men of wealth as such. We should do all we can to encourage thrift and business energy, to put a premium upon the conduct of the man who honestly earns his livelihood and more than his livelihood and who honestly uses the money that he has earned. But it is our clear duty to see, in the interest of the people, that there is adequate supervision and control over the business use of the swollen fortunes of today and also wisely to determine the conditions upon which these fortunes are to be transmitted and the percentage that they shall pay to the government whose protecting arm alone enables them to exist. Only the nation can do this work. To relegate it to the states is a farce and is simply another way of saying that it shall not be done at all.

National Regulation of Trusts.

Under a wise and farseeing interpretation of the interstate commerce clause of the constitution, I maintain that the national government should have complete power to deal with all of this wealth which in any way goes into the commerce between the states—and practically all of it that is employed in the great corporations does thus go in. The national legislators should most scrupulously avoid any demagogic legislation about the business use of this wealth and should realize that it would be better to have no legislation at all than legislation couched either in a vindictive spirit of hatred toward men of wealth or else drawn with the recklessness of impracticable visionaries. But, on the other hand, it shall and must ultimately be understood that the United States government, on behalf of the people of the United States, has and is to exercise the power of supervision and control over the business use of this wealth—in the first place, over all the work of the common carriers of the nation, and in the next place over the work of all the great corporations which directly or indirectly do any interstate business whatever—and this includes almost all of the great corporations.

Against Government Ownership.

The government ought not to conduct the business of the country, but it ought to regulate it so that it shall be conducted in the interest of the public.

Perhaps the best justification of the course which in the national government we have been pursuing in the past few years, and which we intend steadily and progressively to pursue in the future, is that it is condemned with almost equal rancor alike by the reactionaries—the Bourbons—on one side and by the wild apostles of unrest on the other. The reactionary is bitterly angry because we have deprived him of that portion of his power which he misuses to the public hurt; the agitator is angered for various reasons, including among others the fact that by remedying the abuses we have deprived him of the fulcrum of real grievance, which alone renders the lever of irrational agitation formidable.

"We Shall Not Halt."

We have actually accomplished much, but we have not accomplished all, nor anything like all, that we feel must be accomplished. We shall not halt; we shall steadily follow the path we have marked out, executing the laws we have succeeded in putting upon the statute books with absolute impartiality as between man and man and unresting in our endeavor to strengthen and supplement these by further laws which shall enable us in more efficient and more summary fashion to achieve the ends we have in view.

Congress has taken giant strides along the path of government regulation and control of corporations; the interstate commerce law has been made effective in radical and far reaching fashion, rebates have been stopped, a pure food law has been passed, proper supervision of the meat packing business provided and the bureau of corporations established—a bureau which has already done great good and which can and should be given a constantly increasing functional power.

The work of legislation has been no more important than the work done by the department of justice in executing the laws not only against corporations and individuals who have broken the antitrust or interstate commerce law, but against those who have been engaged in land frauds. Scores of suits, civil and criminal, have been successfully undertaken against offenders of all kinds—many of them against the most formidable and wealthy combinations in the land; in some the combinations have been dissolved, in some heavy fines have been imposed, in several cases the chief offenders have been imprisoned.

"It Behooves Us to Look Ahead."

It behooves us Americans to look ahead and plan out the right kind of a civilization as that which we intend to develop from these wonderful new conditions of vast industrial growth. It must not be, it shall not be, the civilization of a mere plutocracy, a banking house, Wall street syndicate civilization; nor yet can there be submission to class hatred, to rancor, brutality and mob violence, for that would mean the end of all civilization. Increased powers are susceptible of abuse as well as use. Never before have the opportunities for selfishness been so great nor the results of selfishness so appalling, for the communities where everything is organized on a merely selfish commercial basis such selfishness, if unchecked, may transform the great forces of the new epoch into powers of destruction hitherto unequaled.

We need to check the forces of greed, to insure just treatment alike of capital and of labor and of the general public, to prevent any man, rich or poor, from doing or receiving wrong, whether this wrong be one of cunning or of violence. Much can be done by wise legislation and by resolute enforcement of the law, but still more must be done by steady training of the individual citizen in conscience and character until he grows to abhor corruption and greed and tyranny and brutality and to prize justice and fair dealing.

The New Capitol.

The new building is generally conceded to be one of the most beautiful and imposing in the country, not only in its architecture, but in its interior decoration and furnishings. Thus far the total expenditure has been about $13,000,000. The Democrats are making a state issue of the alleged excessive cost of the furnishings. The structure is Roman-Corinthian in its general design, is faced with Barre granite and covers a little more than two acres of ground. It contains more floor space than the capitol building at Washington and will shelter all the departments of the state government.

Inventors Swamp Patent Office.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Inventive genius of the country, stimulated by the great industrial activity, is pouring inventions into the patent office at such a rate that the examiners are almost a year behind with their work. The divisions of motors, explosives, weapons, submarine and aerial navigating devices are especially crowded. Commissioner Allen says, "We need more adequate quarters, more men and better salaries for examiners."

ROYAL BLOOD SHED

Girl Related to King Edward Murdered In Prussian Park.

BODY TERRIBLY MUTILATED

All Europe Shocked by Mysterious Crime at Essen, Germany—Deed Committed In Daylight In Public Place, but No One Saw It.

Essen, Prussia, Oct. 3.—The brutal murder of a young Englishwoman, who is said to be distantly related to the royal family of Great Britain, has created a profound sensation all over Europe.

The victim was Miss Madaline Lake, daughter of an English army officer. Her body, terribly mutilated, was found in the city park. Both her temples were beaten in, her throat was lacerated by the fingers of the murderer, who evidently strangled her in addition to beating her terribly about the head, arms and body. Every portion of her body was covered with bruises as the result of the frightful struggle with her assailants.

Up to the present the police have been unable to throw any light upon the crime. Every clew that has been followed by the detectives has led into a blind trail. Efforts have been made to learn if the young woman was acquainted with any man who might be suspected of the crime, but nothing has been discovered in that direction. It was at first thought that robbery was the motive, but even this failed to develop, as the rings on the victim's fingers were not stolen, and her purse was intact.

Murdered In Broad Day.

The excitement caused in the city is intense, and little else is discussed. The crime was committed in a public park which is traversed almost every moment of the day. The hour was practically daylight, as there was still light enough to see plainly when the body was discovered. Then the social prominence of the victim adds to the feeling of intense grief among all classes.

Miss Lake's family is one of the best known in court circles in London, and the detectives have seemingly established the fact of her relationship to the reigning house of Great Britain. It has been apparently established beyond doubt that the brother of her grandmother married a daughter of Caroline Amelie Elizabeth of Brunswick, who was the wife of George IV. of England.

Al these facts have caused the police to make more than the usual efforts to run down the murderer, but their efforts so far have been unavailing, and the excitement caused by the crime is growing hourly.

GAVE EACH CHILD $1,000,000

Brewer Pabst Wanted to See What They Would Do With It.

Wilwaukee, Wis., Oct. 3.—That Captain Frederick Pabst when he gave the large gifts to his family before his death was not in expectation of death, but, on the contrary, looked forward to several years more of life, was the trend of the evidence offered by the attorneys for his estate at the hearing of the inheritance tax case before Judge Carpenter. The most important testimony was given by Collector of Internal Revenue Henry Fink, who told of a visit he paid to Captain Pabst only a short time before the brewer died.

"On that occasion," testified Mr Fink, "Captain Pabst said to me. 'What do you think? I have given each of my children $1,000,000. I wanted to get rid of some business cares, and then I was anxious to see how they would act under such responsibilities.'"

CALLED DOWN BY KAISER.

Hohenlohe Bitterly Rebuked For Publishing Father's Memoirs.

Prague, Bohemia, Oct. 9—Prince Philip von Hohenlohe, elder brother of Prince Alexander, who caused the publication of the late Chancellor von Hohenlohe's "Recollections," replying to the emperor's reproof telegraphed to the younger son, has informed the emperor that he was absolutely right in his strictures. Prince Philip agrees with the emperor in the statement that Alexander ought not to have published his father's "Recollections" and that he did so without consulting his elder brother.

The following is the text of Emperor William's telegram to Prince Alexander von Hohenlohe:

I have this moment read with astonishment and indignation the publication of a most intimate and private conversation between your father and myself concerning Prince Bismarck's retirement. How could it possibly be made public without my permission? I must point out that the publication was in the highest degree tactless, indiscreet and entirely inopportune. It is unheard of that such incidents concerning the reigning sovereign alone should be published.

Prince Bismarck once told Baron von Holstein, his most confidential assistant in the foreign office, that it was in itself an indiscretion for a diplomatist to keep a diary.

Hollman, Pottsville; fourth vice president, John Banks, Steelton; W. W. Wonder, Reading, recording secretary; James Green, Carlisle, corresponding secretary, and A. L. Reichenburg, Allentown, treasurer.

The treasurer's report showed $1,858 dues paid for this convention and a membership of 979, far in advance of any other convention of the association.

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of Towanda Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, sideache, headache,
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Towanda citizen tells here a certain cure.

John Merithew, employed in Toy factory, living at 105 Pratt avenue, says: "About seven years ago I had a severe attack of backache. It was similar to other attacks, but it lasted longer and finally compelled me to quit work. Every turn or sudden move hurt. I could not rest with any comfort and had to lay in just one position or suffer the consequences which were sharp twinges of pain through the small of my back. The remedies I used did not prove satisfactory and when I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I sent to a drug store and procured a box. I was in such distress that I used them more frequently than the directions called for. I may have been wrong in so doing, but the end justified the means, for in a short time the pains grew less and less, and finally disappeared entirely. My opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today is stronger than ever. I have used them from time to time since, and in every case they have acted promptly and effectively. I cheerfully re-endorse my first statement."

The New "Combination Closet-shelf" on the

is the most important range improvement brought out in a number of years. Designed especially for The Andes Range, and, patents having been applied for, it is found on no other range.

Every woman knows how plenty of shelf room on a range saves her steps. This is used with the door closed, as a warming closet. By pushing the door up out of the way, it provides a lot of extra shelf room in addition to the regular T shelf and high shelf.

The door of the "Combination Closet-shelf" is arranged somewhat like the cover of a roll-top desk, so that when not needed the door is out of sight and out of the way.

Other important features of this range are plain design, saving constant cleaning, extra large oven, removable grate and fire-box, big, deep ash-pan, large broiler door, a reliable oven thermometer and removable nickel on top and hearth.

All castings used in every style of Andes stoves are of new iron, smooth and heavy and of best quality.

A call at our store will give you a better idea of the superiority of this range. Let us show you.

People will generally sympathize with and many of them justify the Ohio woman who sought divorce from her husband on the ground that he insisted on having nothing for breakfast but predigested breakfast foods.

A nearby city reports a number of chicks as hatching from an egg case placed on the platform of a cold storage plant. The eggs producing these chicks must have had a good two weeks' start before the local grocer got hold of them.

Inasmuch as 95 per cent of all house flies are said to breed in horse manure, we would seem to be doomed to suffer from this pest as long as we raise horses or at least until we adopt systematic methods of killing the larvae before they have a chance to hatch out.

A little forethought exercised just now in the matter of starting the flowering bulbs will insure a most delightful whiff of fragrance and floral beauty in the cold months of winter when otherwise we would have but the memory and anticipation of summer flowers to cheer the dark days.

It would seem to be a bad bargain when order in the home is maintained at a sacrifice of actual comfort and good feeling among the different members of the family. Order in itself amounts to nothing. It is only justifiable when it confers benefit on those who are affected amounting to more than the cost of maintaining it.

Barring a burn out or protracted sickness, there would seem to be no good reason why any family that has had access to a piece of ground the present season should not have in store enough canned fruit and garden vegetables to supply the table through the winter. While downright shiftlessness is no valid excuse, it is usually the reason why ample stores are not laid up for the winter use.

Although the United States furnishes only about 27 per cent of all the meat consumed in the British isles which is imported, the per cent of staple articles used as food is much greater. All live stock imported into that country must be slaughtered within a few days after arriving upon British soil. This is done, it is claimed, for sanitary reasons and also as a protection to the British grown stock.

A good many farmers living in northern Iowa and southern Minnesota are this year realizing a nice return on the fields which they have sown to flax. Representatives of a flax twine plant are paying as high as $11 per ton for the unthrashed flax, which means for many farmers a return of from $20 to $26 per acre. The flax is pressed, shipped to the plant and thrashed, the seed being saved and the flax being made into binding twine.

The plan of the Canadian government of hiring an expert, at present a man from Oregon, to instruct growers and shippers how to correctly pack apples and the enforcement of a law compelling the honest packing and grading of apples, would seem to be one that might be followed by our own government with good effect. While a somewhat technically worded bulletin is of considerable help to those who can digest it, a practical demonstration by an expert in this line would be of far greater value.

While old country conditions may be such as to make it imperative that every inch of ground should be put to some practical and definite use in the line of raising stuff for the family consumption, land is plentiful enough in this country to admit of at least four square rods in front of the farm or town home being devoted to flower beds and lawn. That much space at least should be dedicated to a development in us of the aesthetic and love of the beautiful and should not be used as a hog lot, pumpkin or potato patch.

There came to our notice the other day the case of a farmer whose example might be followed with profit by many today. Starting with a small farm fifteen or eighteen years ago, he resolved not to sell a pound of grain therefrom. Instead year by year he converted the products of his land into butter, mutton, beef and pork. Today he has as much land as he cares to handle, has a good sized bank account, while his acres are known for miles around as the most fertile and productive in the locality. There is a suggestion here for the fellow who has heretofore been content with a land skinning, grain selling type of agriculture.

A higher compliment could hardly be paid to any matron than that she had the reputation of being thoughtful and considerate of her washerwoman.

The largest amount of dry food material in the corn is not obtained until the corn has fully matured, nearly one-third being lost if harvested before that time.

It does about as much good, except for appearance, to cut the weeds at this time of the year as it does to try to reform a boy's bad habits after he has had his own way for fifteen years.

It doesn't pay to buy bargain counter meat. They have that in the small shop in the big city, where people have to take what is given them unless they know what they want and insist upon getting it.

One of the many results of the late Russo-Japanese war has been the arousing of a keen interest on the part of the latter people in the matter of horse raising, which is to be carried on under the direct supervision of the government.

While returns from stock raising and dairy farming are spread over a longer period of time than those obtained where the grain itself is sold, they total much larger at the end of the year and do not represent a depleted soil fertility, which is true in the second case.

That hired man who is always breaking, misplacing or carelessly loaning farm tools and machinery had better give room for some one else. If he can't be relied upon to take care of the minor details in connection with his work he can hardly be trusted to properly care for the stock or harvest the crops.

We are old fashioned enough so that there is no sight which affords us more inspiration and pleasure than that observed when the well to do townsman or farmer files into kirk followed by his wife and family of five or six children. It is a good omen to all who believe that well ordered homes constitute the foundation of a patriotic, happy and abiding fatherland.

A level headed landlord of whom we know has made an arrangement with his tenant whereby each has invested one-half in the purchase of a first class manure spreader. It goes without saying that this plan could hardly be made to pan out with the one year skin renter. As it is, each party to the agreement feels that the investment is a safe one and that he will get substantial returns from the money laid out.

We heard a lady say the other day that she always scrubbed her spring chickens thoroughly—she used soap, water and a brush—and rinsed them well before she considered them fit for the kettle or the frying pan. This certainly is reasonable, inasmuch as the barnyard fowls are only protected by a natural covering of feathers which is by no means impregnable when it comes to the dust, vermin and weather exposure to which they are subjected.

If there is an apple tree in your orchard whose fruit you would keep as long as possible, pick each apple carefully, wrap well in pieces of paper and place in a box or barrel in your cellar. Placed in bran, they will give equally good results. In either case the fruit will be so packed that it will be kept from the air, while if any of it decays it will not contaminate that which lies adjacent. It is of prime importance that the fruit so treated should not be marred or bruised in any way.

The raising of European pheasants bids fair to become as much of a fad as the raising of Belgian hares, a craze that swept over the country some years ago. However, the former would seem to be the more commendable occupation of the two, with distinct benefit rather than injury likely in case the business of raising the pheasants should be carried on extensively. Last year 25,000 pairs of these birds were imported into this country. At present there seems to be good money in the business, single pairs selling as high as $24.

The carrying of water, both in getting and emptying, is one of the hardest things to contend with in the farm home where there are no waterworks or drainage systems. Much of the time it is left for the women and children to do, which in many cases is unavoidable. A good well and a good cistern close at hand are a boon to the home. Appoint yourself as an investigating committee and see what can be done with yours. We know of a home up among the hills of Vermont where the water power and water supply come from a hillside stream. The water is soft and ever a delight to the user.

If alcohol proves to be the valuable fuel which it now promises it will greatly help to lighten the burdens of the farm as well as along other lines of business. When the time comes that the farm produces the raw materials—beets potatoes. yams, etc.—of which the alcohol is made, in sufficient quantities and then by means of neighborhood cooperative distilleries the cost is reduced so as to make it possible and practicable as a labor saver, then the small engine will do the work so much needed—grind the feed, saw the wood, work the separator, churn the butter and do other things where power can be used to better advantage than the strength of man or beast.

SOME SPRAYING RESULTS.

With the finishing of the apple picking in the writer's orchard last week we are able to give a summary of spraying operations which have been conducted during the past season. The work was carried on under the supervision of the state experiment station, and such directions as they gave were carried out as carefully as was possible. In order to compare results on sprayed and unsprayed trees two blocks containing fifteen trees each were left unsprayed, these being selected in that portion of the orchard which this year was expected to be in bearing. The early spraying which was recommended by the department was not given, because the apparatus did not arrive in time. The first spraying was given just before the blossoms opened, a second just after the petals fell, a third about twenty days later and the fourth and last about Aug. 1. In the first three sprayings the 5-5-50 formula of bordeaux mixture was used, to which a pound of paris green was added for every 150 gallons of water. For the last spraying half strength bordeaux mixture was used, while a homemade solution of arsenate of lead was used in place of the paris green. The fruit from both unsprayed blocks was carefully picked and measured. This included the total product of the trees, windfalls and all. It was found that the fifteen trees in block No. 1 produced five and three-quarter bushels, while the sprayed block of trees adjoining, which were of the same size and variety, bore twenty-six and a quarter bushels. Block No. 2, unsprayed, yielded three and three-quarter bushels, while a similar number of sprayed trees to the north bore twenty-six and a quarter bushels, and a like block of sprayed trees to the south bore twenty-nine bushels. A view of the trees before the fruit was picked was even more convincing as to the value of spraying than are the figures quoted above. An inspection of the trees showed that some of the fruit that did mature on the unsprayed sections was undoubtedly due to the fact that in one or more of the treatments some of the spray must have been carried to them by the wind while the men were at work on the trees adjoining. This, however, would tend to strengthen rather than weaken the force of the above figures. In addition to increasing the total product of the tree the percentage of perfect fruit on the sprayed was very much larger than that on the unsprayed trees. A conservative estimate would put the amount of marketable fruit on the whole orchard at five or six times what it would have been had no spraying been done. Next season the earlier spraying will be given before the buds break, more care will be exercised in the spraying, so as to more thoroughly cover the lower branches, while better results are looked for from a power sprayer which we expect to use than from the hand power sprayer which was used this year. While the spraying did not accomplish all that might be accomplished, it demonstrated not only the necessity, but the value, of systematic spraying for all commercial orchards.

POISON IVY.

The noting of several serious cases of ivy poisoning this year suggests that some little account of the plant might be in place for the benefit of those who may not be well acquainted with it. While poison ivy is quite often found in the woods, it seems to prefer roadsides, fence corners and scrub brush pasture lots. It differs from the Virginia creeper, with which it is often confused, in having three leaves, while that has five. The poison ivy leaf is also broader, of a smoother surface and possesses a more regular edge. A fact that increases the danger from it is that its leaves turn to a beautiful variety of orange and red colors in the fall, equaling those of any other shrub or tree, and it is often picked by the inexperienced, who delight in gathering the highly colored autumn leaves. As is true with the sting of bees and bites of other insects, many people do not seem susceptible to poisoning from contact with the ivy leaves. With others it is a most virulent poison, they being so sensitive that the presence of the vine in lots adjoining the one in which they live will cause an outbreak on their face and hands, although there is absolute evidence that they have not come in physical contact with the plant itself. One who has suffered much from this method of contracting the poisoning tells us that he has found nothing that gave so much relief as bathing the affected parts in warm sweet milk. The remedy is inexpensive, cannot possibly be harmful and would seem to be worth trying. The children in the home should have the ivy pointed out to them and be given instructions to let the three leaved sprawling vine alone, no matter how brilliantly colored or attractive its leaves may be.

THE SIGNBOARD NUISANCE.

The farmers of northern Indiana and southern Michigan are to be commended for taking the initiative in a much needed reform, while their action will result in an increase of business for the newspaper in the territory in which they reside. They have declared war on the signboard method of advertising which is so generally in vogue over the country and have formed an organization the duty of whose members is to see that every signboard is removed from their premises and to prosecute merchants who in the future may trespass on their property. The farmers claim that the signs not only mar the looks of their places, but that much damage is done to trees and fences while the signs are being posted up. A resolution adopted by the organization commended the newspaper as the proper and legitimate means of communicating advertising information to the people.

Gas Explosion Kills a Republican.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—While twenty Republican precinct leaders of Hancock county were holding caucus in the town hall at New Palestine, a town fifteen miles east of Indianapolis, the gas tank exploded, killing one man and injuring eight others. William Toon, a rural route carrier, was killed, and Elmer J. Binford, William A. Howe, James F. Reed, W. H. Rock, J. L. McCune, John Branson, John Hittell and William Hobbs were injured. The building was almost completely wrecked.

Same Old Way.

Robert—When I get into my new house I mean that everything shall go like clockwork. Richard—I see; the same as heretofore—tick, tick!

Wyalusing grange has some wide-awake and enterprising members who did much credit to this grange by having two excellent exhibits at the county fair and obtaining the first and second premiums. The exhibits consisted of grains and garden vegetables in great variety. A few did the work but all get the glory. Indeed this is often the case, but as we think of it, if all had done as well as the few there would have been an immense display. The honor goes to the oldest grange in the county but if each of the other 30 had done nearly as well it would have been a grange fair indeed.

The last visible trace of the old Indian path from the Lycoming that led to the mouth of Sugar Creek as well as down the Towanda Creek valley has been destroyed by the deep cut made by the P., B. and E. railroad at the South point of Vanfleet Hill, near by the North side of the Towanda Creek. Much has been said by some of the members of the Historical society about marking this old Indian path so it coud be traced by future generations, but no effort has been made to cary out the work. At the present time much skill would be required to mark it reasonbly accurate but in a few years it would seem to be almost impossoble.

During several years past some of our granges have made a practice of having members who have attended the county fair make reports of what they saw and learned at the fair. The practice is a good one and much information is gained by the listening members. Brothers and sisters frequently make a close study of the exhibits on purpose to be prepared to make a good report when called on by the lecturer. It often happens that those who report claim to have produced far better vegetables, grains, sheep, hogs, cattle, horses, etc., than they saw at the fair. It is sometimes learned that the only reason why they did not aid in making exhibits was because "it is too much bother."

At the recent annual meeting of the Bradford County Historical society the following officers were elected: President, Albert T. Lilley of LeRoy; vice presidents, H. W. McCraney and I. McPherson; secretary, J. A. Wilt; financial secretary, Ida K. Layton; treasurer, George T. Ingham; librarian, C. F. Heverly. One of the marked features for the ensuing year is improvement in the library. There is a chance for much to be done and a strong effort is to be made to make it what it ought to be. People everywhere help make history, but there should be more to help preserve it.

Many a member of the grange thinks it a difficult task to learn the esoteric work of the grange, yet it is no more so than it is to learn the names, with signification, of the ancient fish that were buried in sediment from which our rocks were made. Desire, effort and preserverence are required for either but an earnest effort will accomplish much. Boys like to go fishing in the water and certainly wish to know the names of the fish caught. Some boys may wish to know the names of the fish that lived in the water that long ago covered the surface of what is now Bradford county, so we give the names of some that are termed prehistoric: In the Chemung rocks we have found: Cladodus, dipterus, heliodus, holoptychius—four specimens—holonema rugosus, bothriolepis, minor, coccosteus macromus, sphenophorus Lillegi, onychodus, three species of dinichthys and osteolepis. In the Catskill rocks we have found: Bothriolepis, Leidgi, two species of holoptychius and holenema horrida. In the Pacono sandstone we have: Gyracanthus Alleni, holoptychius giganteus and ctenecanthus. The remains of several other kinds of fish are found but have not been studied and classified, one kind at least has teeth one and a half inches long. The remains of the above named fish have all been found in LeRoy township. No other township in our county has so great a variety of geological formatinos, so it will not be possible to find so many ancient fish in any other part of the county. It is possible that more fish may be found in the rock cuts of the P., B. and E. railroad. Since writing the above, under date of Oct. 3, E. R. Mulford, chairman of the State Grange Zoological committee says to me: "State Master Hill writes me he has appointed you as a member of the State Grange Zoological committee, from Bradford county." He also says he has a county committee of two to aid him in Tioga county and the committee is appointing one from each grange to aid in making collections for the State Zoologist. Our readers may think the grange field is broadening but it is not. It is the same old farm but it is being more thoroughly studied.

On the 5th inst. we had the pleasure of attending a grange fair under the auspices of Beech Flats grange. The judges of the ladies' department were Miss Edna Fitzwater, Miss Pauline Brown, and Mrs. A. T. Lilley. Of men's department, Martin Kelley, John McKee, and A. T. Lilley. The following received first premium: Butter, Mrs. M. T. Fitzwater; best grain in the kernel, Ernest Fitzwater; corn in the ear, R. U. Fitzwater; potatoes, Ernest Fitzwater; garden or table vegetables, L. R. Fitzwater; apples, M. J. Wright; pears, L. R. Fitzwater; peaches, Ernest Fitzwater; nicest display of fruit, R. H. Wright; nicest display of vegetables, Mrs. W. Hoose; nicest display of grains, Ernest Fitzwater; best pumpkin, H. D. Hoose; nicest and best display of cake, Edna Fitzwater; pies, Edna Fitzwater; bread, Emma Wright; largest and best display of baking, Mrs. Terry; largest and best display of flowers, Jennie Fitzwater; fancy work, Mrs. R. H. Wright; plain needle work, Jennie Fitzwater; largest display in ladies' department, Jennie Fitzwater. Specialties on exhibition but not entered for premium Crimson beauty potatoes, four years from seed from the ball, Mrs. M. T. Fitzwater; garden huckleberries, Mrs. Wheatty; large ear of corn, having 26 perfect rows of kernels, M. J. Wright. There were many articles present that were not entered. HIGH SCHOOL TEAM STARTS OUT WELL.

In Short, Fast Game, With Adverse Conditions, Monroeton Is Beaten.

In a short, but fiercely fought game at the East Towanda Athletic grounds, the Towanda High School Foot Ball team defeated the Monroeton eleven Saturday, the score at the end of the second half being 5 to 0. Though the crowd of spectators was small those who saw the contest were well repaid for the trip over the bridge, as the local students put up a game, both offensive and defensive, to be proud of and which promises good sport whenever the young men play here.

Owing to the wind and rain storm which broke over the valley during Saturday afternoon, the Monroeton team was in doubt about coming, but they finally showed up about 4 o'clock and the game was called at 4:30 o'clock with Hulett Turner as referee. A few old devotees of the great game, curious to see how the youngsters would interpret the new rules were on hand, but were disappointed, for the drizzling rain and slippery condition of the grounds made impossible anything but good straight foot ball of the old fashioned kind.

From the start, Captain Smith of Towanda High used aggressive tactics and the local back field repeatedly hit the Monroeton line for gains, without however being able to score more than the one touchdown. For this, right half-back Vought was pushed over the line, after several minutes of beautiful defensive work on Monroeton's part.

The Towanda team lines up against Athens at the local grounds next Friday, and Saturday's "try-out" afforded valuable training. The line-up in Saturday's game was not just as had been planned, but next Friday's game will probably see the following players in these positions:

Gridiron Gleanings.

In a game between Athens and Waverly High school teams, at Athens, Albert Flynn, of the Waverly team, was badly injured and carried insensible from the field. Dr. Cowell attended him and he is now out of danger. The accident came about through a tackle made by Full-back Andrews.

Crowd at Williamsport.

A big crowd went in the rain to witness Saturday's game at Williamsport, between the Carlisle Indians and Pennsylvania State college, the latter team winning by a score of 5 to 0.

Try Waverly, T. H. S.

Judging from the performances of both teams thus far, Waverly H. S. would make an interesting game with the local High school punters.

Sayre Postoffice Changed.

Postmaster George D. Bonfoey of Sayre, received official notice last week from the postal department at Washington, that the location of the Sayre office would be changed as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made. As is usual in Sayre, when any sort of step is taken, there were several howls sent up by those who will have to walk a few steps farther. The department, however, makes the change in the interest of facilitating the handling of the mails and improving the service in the borough. The new site will be on South Desmond street in the Richard's block in the store which was formerly occupied by the Procas Candy company.

Follow Towanda's Example.

Not satisfied with the parade made at Sayre on the occasion of the Valley Firemen's convention, some days ago, the Waverly department has decided to hold an evening parade of its own, following the example of the Towanda firemen. The date set by Chief Clohessy for the evening carnival is Thursday, Oct. 11, and the department will be reviewed by the village officials, with red fire and all the trimmings.

Goes to Geneva.

J. K. Smith, former editor of the Gorham, N. Y., Age, who has been spending the Summer in Towanda, has accepted a position in the large publishing house of W. F. Humphrey, at Geneva and will leave for that place on Monday.

FISH AND THEIR BAIT.

Towanda's Isaak Walton Contributes Another Interesting Bit of Lore.

Minnows, as well as other small fish, furnish a natural food for fish that are what we term carniverous or flesh eating. Each fisherman has his choice of kind, although the chub seems to have the preference. All minnows are fast disappearing from the streams, and the small creeks alone is where we have to go to find them. The time was when the river teemed with them, countless schools of little fish were sporting along the shores. You are not greeted with such sights nowadays. The bass and other fish of like nature have destroyed them. The Lamphrey eel is one of the deadliest bait for the pike-perch, and is becoming scarce and commands good prices in market, being eagerly sought after by the angler. Trolling is the favorite way of fishing with this bait.

"Night Walkers," crabs and angle-worms, grasshoppers, crickets and even bees, frogs, toads, etc., are used at times with success.

Early in 1870 a number of citizens of Pennsylvania broached the subject of stocking the waters of the state with black bass from the Potomac river and waters near Harpers Ferry, Va. Mr. Norris collected about $1,000 and Mr. Stout $313, using about half this money these gentlemen purchased about 450 black bass from the Potomac. These fish were full grown. They were placed in the Delaware river Oct. 26, 1870, near Easton. Public spirited citizens residing along the Susquehanna river purchased a numer of fish from the same locality paying one dollar apiece for them and placed them in the river. In 1873 the fish began to breed along their new habitat in the Susquehanna and so rapidly did the fish multiply that in 1874 there were thousands of small fry here with us. An adult bass will lay from 20,000 to 30,000 eggs, which is guarded with spartan care and a fidelity that is remarkable, destroying or driving away all enemies from the spawning bed. The bass for a number of years were to be found in all rivers and tributaries in the state. The pike-perch, sometimes called glass-eye, wall-eye pike. We never have had any yellow bass in the upper Susquehanna. The yellow bass is shaped much like the black bass ,has yellow scales, and well defined black scales or lines extending from the head to the tail.

The pike-perch was in the river long before we had any fish commissioners and they are entitled to no credit for this superb fish. The pike-perch takes readily to our waters. As to its introduction the following tells the story: Shortly after the war of 1812 a Jesuit priest and an Englishman living on the river had seen the pike-perch in Seneca Lake, N. Y. They made a journey to the lake and captured several specimens and brought them safely to the river, a tributary of the Susquehanna, depositing them in the water at Newtown, now known as Elmira. ITHICO.

Reunion of the 58th at New Albany.

The Mirror has the following concerning the reunion held at that place recently: The reunion of the 58th at this place was thoroughly enjoyed by the survivors who were present. Over 50 of the old vets were entertained for dinner at the Wells House. Landlord Campbell had some genuine army hard tack on the bill of fare which was appreciated by the old soldiers more than all the dainties. Among those present from a distance we noticed Isaac Babcock of Athens; James Campbell of Shunk, and John M. Jones of Granville.

Erskine Packard.

Erskine Packard died on Sept. 18, at his home in Alba borough, in his 71st year. Funeral services were held on Sept. 20 at his home. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Carroll and Lewis, and one daughter, Mrs. Galen Ayers. Mr. Packard was a good citizen, a faithful member of the Christian church, of which he was an elder at his death. Resolutions of respect were adopted by the church society at a recent meeting.

"Jack" Is In Again.

"Jack" McCarty, ex-pugilist and bad man generally, Tuesday morning finished his second term of 30 days in the county jail. He had made numerous threats against the officers and others who had to do with him on his previous tears, and so he was met at the jail door by Constable Hollon with a warrant charging him with assault and battery. He waived a hearing and was again locked up to wait the action of the next grand jury.

Nichols Man Breaks Jail.

Ira Warner of Nichols, who was a member of the stone gang in the Owego jail, escaped Wednesday afternoon and eluded the guards who pursued him. He was sent from Nichols on July 17 to serve 180 days for petit larceny.

VETERAN EDITOR DEAD AT CORNING.

George W. Pratt, Editor and Owner Corning Journal, Passes Away.

George W. Pratt, editor and proprietor of the Corning Journal, died at his home on Cedar street at an early hour Wednesday morning, aged 85 years.

In the early Spring Mr. Pratt suffered a serious illness and his life was despaired of for a period of about ten days. He rallied from this illness and was seen at the Journal office a number of times thereafter, but was very feeble. On Sunday last he suffered a severe attack of indigestion and his enfeebled constitution was not able to stand the shock, his death ensuing on Wednesday morning.

George Wollage Pratt was born at May's Mills in the town of Milo, N. Y., April 17, 1821. When 13 years old he removed with his parents to the then town of Painted Post, Now Corning, N. Y. He studied medicine at the Geneva, N. Y., Medical college and graduated in 1845 and followed the practice of his profession until 1851, when he entered journalism as editor and part proprietor of the Corning Journal. Later he became the sole proprietor of the paper and has continued as editor and proprietor ever since. He has been an ardent Republican since the formation of the party and was one of the eight vice presidents of the first Republican State convention for the state of New York. He was the incumbent of several offices during his lengthy career, among others a state canal collector at Corning, a member of the first board of managers of the State hospital for the insane at Ogdensburg, and postmaster of Corning. He was gifted with a fine mind and was a remarkable writer, both of news matter and editorially.

Old Deeds Unearthed.

Very recently the Dickerman farm and property in Burlington borough, was sold by the heirs and the property transferred. In going through an old safe which had been in possession of the family for many years there was found a deed for a portion of the farm in question, made by Carroll of Carrollton, signer of the Declaration of Independence. This interesting document was dated 1817. The land was deeded by the British crown to Carroll, from him to Bloom, from Bloom to Addison McKean and from McKean to the original Dickerman owner. In the same safe was found a parchment deed for a portion of this farm dated 1801.

An Interesting Implement.

Stephen A. Lane of Luthers Mills, has an old corn sheller which is about 100 years old, and which Mr. Lane has had in his possession for about 40 years. The shelling apparatus is made of hickory with iron spikes. It is necessary to set the sheller in an enclosed bin when it is to be operated, as the corn is apt to fly for yards unless confined. Mr. Lane exhibited the old piece of machinery at the Towanda fair where it attracted a great deal of attention, especially from the older Bradford county people who saw it.

G. A. R. Anniversary.

Nov. 22, 1906, wil be the fortieth anniversary of the organization of the Grand Army of the Republic and it is proposed to celebrate the event in all the posts in the United States with patriotic exercises. A monument to the founder of the order, Dr. Stephenson, will be erected in Washington and will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. The services of dedication may unavoidably be postponed to a later day, but it will stand as a perpetual memorial of this illustrious man.

The Heemans Are Here.

Fred and Henry Heeman are now both in the Towanda jail to await requisition papers from the state of New York, when they will be taken to Tioga county and tried on the charge of burglary in the robbery of Bingham Brothers' store at Lockwood. The Heemans are expected by the Waverly police to have been implicated, and a number of stolen articles were found when a house in Athens in which they had been staying was searched. The two men were also caught while wearing coats which had been taken from the Bingham store.

$17,000 Paid Out.

On Saturday last there was paid out by officials of the P., B. and E. railroad about $17,000, the money going to the hundreds of men now at work between Cedar Ledge and Powell. At the former place the construction work has proceeded so fast that the temporary junction with the Northern Central will soon be effected.

Stacy—Patterson.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Baptist church at Springfield, Wednesday evening, Sept. 26, at 8 o'clock, by the pastor, Rev. W. P. Hazelton. The contracting parties were Frank C. Stacy and Miss Nora Mae Patterson, popular young people and descendants of families long prominent in the community. The church was very attractive in decorations of green and pink. There was a profusion of potted plants and asters. They were married beneath a beautiful arch of the latter. The bridal couple were attended by the bride's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Mason of Sayre, and by little Ida Stacy and Ruth Patterson as flower girls. A bridal march and other appropriate music preceded and followed the exchange of vows. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Patterson, where a very tempting repast was served. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents.—Troy Gazette-Register.

Took Money, Scorned Love.

A news dispatch to a Philadelphia newspaper sent from New York, concerns a former resident of Towanda, who left here some two years ago, and who is said to have left a wife and child in this vicinity to get along without him. The dispatch says that a charge of embezzlement has been instituted against Saran Atland by Edward M. Bissel. It is said that after the prosecutor, who was engaged to be married to the defendant, had purchased a diamond ring, obtained a divorce and a wedding trosseau for the prospective bride, she absconded with $11 of his money, and eloped with another admirer. The prosecutor is 60 years old, while his alleged fiancee is but 20. The young woman left behind a note addressed to Mr. Bissel, which contained the following: "I would rather be a young man's slave than an old man's darling any day. Bye-bye, papa."

Handy With Guns.

"John Doe" warrants were issued Friday afternoon by Justice John Meredith for the arrest of several Italians, known by sight but not by name to the complainants, who are the men in charge of one of the steam shovels, at work across the river, at the Lehigh Valley work on the Laning farm. Friday morning it appears the foreman of one of the shovels was amazed and then alarmed to see a number of Italians some distance away raise arms and discharge a revolver at him. One of the bullets missed his head by a narrow margin, and he then stopped the machinery refusing to work again unless a guard was set to watch the foreigners.

THIS WILL BE STATE'S BEST GAME YEAR.

"Due to Fewer Forest Fires and Better Protection," Says Kalbfus.

"There will be more game this year in Pennsylvania than has been seen in the state for many years," said State Game Secretary Kalbfus, last week at his department. "I am getting splendid accounts from my correspondents all over the state. From every section come good accounts of the vast quantities of game this year.

This is so with pheasants, wild turkeys, deer, quail, gray squirrels and rabbits. There will be more deer killed than for many a year. As for quail I have the best kind of reports, especially concerning the quail we got from Alabama for breeding purposes. Some of them have been seen leading flocks of 21, which is propagating some.

"The reports concerning deer are very encouraging, but there are also reports that some are being killed out of season. We'll get the people who do that and teach them a lesson. I account for the increase in the amount of game to the fact that there have been few forest fires this year, owing to the increased vigilance of the forest wardens, who are also game wardens.

Addition to W. S. & A. Car Barn.

Owing to the great increase in traffic during the last few months, necessitating the Waverly, Sayre and Athens Traction company to put more cars into service to handle the enormous traffic, more room is needed by the company at the car barn, and an addition will be built to the present building for this purpose at an early date.

The company requested the privilege from the borough council Wednesday night to build a switch 150 feet long South of the car barn, which was granted. Another improvement is to be added from time to time and it is said in a short time the residents of the three towns will enjoy a ten-minute service.—Sayre Times.

Attempted Suicide.

A message was received in Towanda Monday stating that B. Worth Jennings of Jenningston, W. Va., was in a very precarious condition from a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Mr. Jennings has been in ill health and a very nervous condition for many months, due his friends believe to overwork and worry connected with his extensive lumbering and building operations at Jenningston. He is very well known here, having been for many years associated with his brother, C. H. Jennings, in lumbering operations in Sullivan county. Temporary insanity is the only theory upon which to account for his attempt at self-destruction, which occurred last Thursday.

Mr. Jennings was taken to the hospital at Elkins, and a telephone message from his brother there Monday afternoon stated that a Philadelphia specialist was of the opinion he had a chance for recovery.
